Historical Society welcomes Dr. Anderson

"There are some people that walk the land tall and Dr. Anderson has walked tall in preserving the language of her people," said Mr. Jim Parker when he introduced Anne Anderson, guest speaker at the annual Lacombe Night banquet put on by the Historical Society on Saturday, February 24.

"In honoring our city's founder and in looking back to our beginnings," continued Mr. Parker, "we must not forget that the history of

DICTIONARY AUTHOR

At the annual banquet and meeting of the St. Albert Historical Society, members were addressed by Dr. Anne Anderson, a former St. Albert resident. Dr. Anderson was responsible for the assembly of a Cree Dictionary and other textbooks, and organized the Cree Study Department at Grant MacEwan Community College. In her talk, Dr. Anderson recalled earlier days in St. Albert.

our area goes back before Father Lacombe. This community was not founded for the settlers of the east but rather for the people who were already here. We are privileged to have Dr. Anderson whose ancestors here pre-date our own to speak to us."

Dr. Anderson, who was born in St. Albert and grew up on a river lot east of the golf course, shared some of her memories, both happy and sad, with the 125 people who attended the banquet. She recalled her family life as the oldest daughter in a large family, her Indian mother and her old country French-Scottish father. While her Scottish grandfather was very proud of his family's connections with British royalty, it was the Indian heritage of her mother that appealed to Dr. Anderson.

She recalled attending the Bellerose School and her first teacher, Mr. Parker, his great kindness and the sadness she felt when he left. She spoke of World War I and the boys that left to fight, and the Spanish flu epidemic and the many deaths. The bells at the church tolled so beautifully, but they always announced something; a death, a fire. "Today," said Dr. Anderson, "they hang as if they are dead."

She recalled the happiness of their Christmas celebrations and the community spirit when the present church was completed by all the community. She spoke of the friends, neighbours, businessmen, of St. Albert and

Reg Petch takes up Social Credit banner

A St. Albert resident, 37 year old Reg Petch, will carry the Social Credit green and white into the March 14 provincial election.

Mr. Petch, his wife Cathy, and their three boys have lived in St. Albert since moving here from Fort McMurray in December, 1974. Until last week he was acting president of the St. Albert Social Credit Association. While living in Fort McMurray Reg spent three years as president of the Fort McMurray/Lac La Biche Social Credit Association but has never sought public office until asked by Opposition Leader Bob Clark if he would run in the St. Albert constituency.

He is employed by Great Canadian Oil Sands as a senior systems programmer responsible for planning, installation and maintenance of computing hardware and software. He has been with the company 10 years.

Mr. Petch says he does not intend to let his name stand merely to collect any Social Credit votes looking for a ballot but will conduct as vigorous a campaign as time allows. He has named Mr. Joe Murray of St. Albert as campaign manager and Mr. Ralph Carter as chief financial officer.

He says his personal philosophy is that "it is a full time commitment to be MLA," and that if elected he would take a leave of absence from his job. He says he just doesn't believe anyone can "part-time" Provincial or Federal politics.

Speaking of his campaign strategies Mr. Petch said he will be going door to door. "It won't be ostentatious with a lot of money spent." It hasn't been finalized yet but Social Credit Leader Clark is expected to visit the constituency. No formal campaign office has yet been established with the sheer lack of space the big factor. Mr. Petch can be reached through his home phone number 458-0812.

Speaking to the Gazette Monday, Reg said he plans to hit on three main areas initially - elementary and secondary education, municipal affairs and proposition '79.

Education must be made an area of high priority, he feels, and this in effect means more provincial money and less dependency upon property tax revenue. He said the Conservatives place education low in their list of priorities. The curriculum is piecemeal without any particular direction. Pupil/teacher ratios are too high and educational standards are too low.

Mr. Petch believes departmentals worth 50 percent of a student's grade 12 final should be introduced. In other words he would like to see some sort of provincial standard introduced.

He would also like to see increased emphasis on Canadian schooling. For example

Purves postpones annexation verdict

St. Albert residents will have to wait a little longer to discover if their city is to be included in the latest annexation bid by the city of Edmonton. It was previously announced that the boundaries of the proposed annexation would be released at yesterday's meeting of Edmonton city council. However, city officials say that as a result of the recent Jasper seminar Mayor Cec Purves has requested more information on the proposal.

Gordon Crescent

Viscount proposal gets MPC nod

After numerous appearances before the Municipal Planning Commission, Mr. J. W. Skvaril for Viscount Investments received limited approval for a development proposal from the MPC.

The property in question is located at Grandin Road and Gordon Crescent. Mr. Skvaril's latest proposal is to develop eight duplexes on the site. The housing units would be serviced from the back service road.

However, members of the commission did not like the idea of a rear service road which would cut into the utility lot. It was suggested to Mr. Skvaril that the duplexes be moved back, with the access being changed to a service road in front. Such an arrangement would involve a land swap or sale between the city and the developer.

The MPC approved the duplex project in principle, on the condition that it have a service road in front.

THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION

On March 14, St. Albert residents, like other Albertans, will find themselves faced with a crucial decision. Electing a Member of the Provincial Legislative Assembly can have far reaching consequences, and the act of casting a vote is a citizen's most precious right. However, sometimes the voter does not have the information he needs to make a responsible choice. He may not know where each of the candidates stands on issues of particular concern to himself and his family. In addition, he or she may not have access to the candidate, to confront him with these queries.

In order to allow every citizen to ask the questions he judges to be important, the Gazette has devised a method by which the voter can be represented at an interview with each candidate. If you have a question or questions for the four candidates, you may phone it in to the Gazette office tomorrow, Thursday, March 1 between 8:30 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. Your question will be noted and will be asked of each candidate during the candidate interviews to be done by the Gazette. The questions and the answers will appear in the March 7 issue. To submit your question phone 458-2240 during the above period, and we will help serve as your voice in election '79.

Sharon serenades hockey fans

By Marty O'Kell

"This year has been really tense," Sharon Braun said, "in both arenas I never know if the sound system is going to work."

You may have seen Sharon. She's the anthem singer for the Edmonton Oilers, and when dates don't conflict, she sings at the St. Albert Junior Saints contests at the Akinsdale Arena.

A few games ago at the Coliseum in Edmonton, just before the Oiler game was about to start, Sharon got out onto the ice, picked up the microphone, then realized it was dead. She motioned to the organist that the mike wasn't working. But she sang along anyway. And so did the Edmonton Oilers.

"They sang real loud" added Miss Braun, a 26 year old St. Albert resident. "Brett Callighen is a real good singer." "I felt terrible standing out there not being able to sing."

Sharon started singing national anthems last year at the Saints home games. Her brother was an assistant coach then, and Doug Messier, the Saints coach, found out she sang and asked her to do the national anthems for the home games. Sharon agreed.

At the beginning of this WHA hockey season, Sharon approached the Edmonton Oilers administration, and asked if they could use a singer.

The Oilers said they did, Sharon auditioned for them, and the job was hers.

Sharon began her singing career back in her teens. At first she wanted to be a concert pianist, then realized that a singing career was really what she wanted. She still managed to get a degree in piano.

Miss Braun has been singing seriously for about five years, and has been taking classical singing under instructor Astor at Grant MacEwan Community College, for three years.

Sharon has sung with the Edmonton Opera and the Southern Alberta Opera societies.

Why classical music? "That's a good question ... it's more of a challenge, opera is the epitomy of theatre."

Sharon has sung several countries anthems now. Besides the Canadian anthem, she sings the American, Swedish, Czech, German, French, Italian and Russian.

There is a story behind the singing of the Russian anthem.

The Edmonton Oilers played a couple of games against Soviet teams in December. The Soviet delegation wouldn't allow anyone to sing their anthem, plus the fact some of the words had changed and they hadn't been published.

With the words Sharon did know, she made a tape anyway, and had it forwarded to the Soviets delegation before the WHA All-star vs Moscow Dynamo series at the Coliseum in January.

Forty-five minutes before the first game of the series, Sharon got word that she was to go to the press room where the Soviet delegation was. When she got there, they told her that she could sing the Soviet anthem, and immediately she was taught the new words to the last few lines.

She did such a good job that the delegation from Russia surprised her with three gifts following the singing of their anthem at the last game.

One of the Soviet officials, stepped out onto the ice and presented her with a Moscow Dynamo doll, a pin, and a Russian flag. Two other

Very interesting

Looking at various campaign pamphlets we've found remarkable similarities. It's comforting to note that all the PC candidates in the current election campaign are such a tight group. Why, they even feel exactly the same way about their province - if one is to take the parties' campaign pamphlet at its written word.

Each candidate devotes three paragraphs to "Alberta ... a what it means to me." The copy is the same for all candidates.

The hum of conversation at Stage West Friday night was relaxed and pleasant, and there was the usual pre-performance air of expectancy. For one Gazette staffer there enjoying a night out, however, this was not to continue. Suddenly, above the drone of indolent chit chat there barked a belligerent voice.

"Sherwood Park sponges off Edmonton - St. Albert sponges off Edmonton!" Our staffer had to check the source of this questionable outburst and turned around to look for the speaker. Lo and behold, it was one of Edmonton's more outspoken city fathers, his face florid with outrage at the inequity of it all. Of course, we wouldn't condescend to gossip and divulge his identity. However, suffice to say that such scenes really take their "toll" of one's good humour.

people also received the Dynamo dolls, Gordie Howe and Oiler owner Peter Pocklington.

Miss Braun says she knew what the Russian anthem meant, as she translated it to find out the meaning.

Sharon, who happens to be single, thinks Dave Dryden is her favorite Oiler. "He's a really good guy, a super guy." Her favorite St. Albert Saint, she decided after a few seconds, is Mark Messier. Mark is now with the Cincinnati Stingers of the WHA, so Sharon felt she could get away with saying Mark without hurting some of the other Saint players feelings.

Sharon has been busy with other things. Like singing on the Commonwealth Games Souvenir Album, which was orchestrated by Edmonton's Tommy Banks. "That's the one with the picture of the Queen on the front."

For the future, Sharon Braun plans to sing at next year's Oiler games, and the Saints games. And if she's asked, she'd sing at the games of the new Edmonton soccer franchise that Peter Pocklington bought last week.

It seems Sharon wouldn't mind an extended season this year, regarding singing at the Oiler games. "They have a really good chance to win," says Sharon, "I hope they go NHL next year."

A great anthem singer, and it seems a real die-hard Oiler fan.

Anti-annexation

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF EDMONTON ANNEXING ST. ALBERT?

"They've got bloody nerve! They're such a bunch of cuckoos...they can't even run their own city, let alone ours."

"Absolutely ridiculous!"

"I'm not in favor of it, the service is pretty good in St. Albert now. Look at the snow removal, none of the side streets in Edmonton are plowed, my street has been done twice this winter."

"I like having a city of our own. If the big city gets in here, you never know what might happen."

"We live here, because we wanted to get out of the city - the hustle and bustle - it's too busy in Edmonton."

"AGT is better than Edmonton Telephones and Calgary Power is better than Edmonton Power, but annexing would get rid of our city council, but then I guess we aren't gaining anything looking at Edmonton Council. If we lose services it's undesirable, if we gain services it's desirable."

The above are samples of comments I received as "Man in the Street" on Monday afternoon in Grandin Shoppers Park. Due to the talkative nature of the people confronted, I only questioned 14 people. All were against Edmonton annexing St. Albert.

RCMP Blotter

There might be some members of the public upset due to the fact that they have left their cars running and their keys have been found under the seat of the car. This has been done by the RCMP to keep the car from being stolen. If you wish to keep your vehicle running, please keep it locked.

Library Board:

Management survey methods explained

The St. Albert Library Board held its monthly meeting on Thursday, February 15. Mr. Bruce Fraser, of Woods Gordon explained how the management survey commissioned by the city, was being conducted. A questionnaire had been administered to the staff. Each staff member was asked to complete a list of duties and tasks, and interviews will be arranged with both the staff and Board members.

A preliminary report on overdues, which had been prepared by the librarian, was discussed at some length. Various suggestions were made with regards to this problem. It was decided to ask the City solicitor, when appointed, to review with the librarian, the Board's present methods and forms, with a view to improving the present situation.

The librarian reported the library had received a dual 8/Super 8 mm projector from the Northern Alberta Library Development Service. It had originally been anticipated

NALDS would deposit a circulating collection of 8 mm films with the library, but this has not been the case. It was felt some citizens in St. Albert might like to be able to borrow a 8 mm projector, so a rental fee of $10 a day was established. It was also decided to increase the rental fee for the 16 mm projector to $15 a day, effective March 1, 1979.

The Board also reviewed its non-resident fees. It was reported there were 302 members of the library who were paying a non-resident fee of either $5 for a single membership or $7.50 for a family. In view of increased costs since 1976, when the fee was first established, the Board decided to increase the family membership to $15 a year. An individual membership is no longer available.

The Board also accepted, with regret, the resignation of its vice-chairman, Mrs. Joan Budd, who was moving to Camrose at the end of the month.

Local band and promoter wow them in NWT

Gabe Keller is a local man, who has been putting together community shows and dabbling in a little comedy on the side for a number of years. Echo Bay Mines has asked Gabe, through (his) Gater Productions, to produce a show for the miners in the North West Territories for the past four years. In August of last year, he phoned Gabe and told him to set a time in 1979, they wanted a show for sure. So Gabe got to work on it and took a real professional outfit north with him last weekend.

Mr. Keller had nothing but praise for Rusty Nail, a local band started by the Panich brothers who run a local music store and school. Nail's usual bass player was unable to go and was replaced by Bill Hersh, who usually plays for Blue Train. You might have heard his latest single, "Country Party." Laverne and Bob Panich head the band with Paul Gondziola on drums.

Also in the production were four Klondike dancers and Delores Wozny, a fine vocalist, all of Edmonton. The Dynamic Duo, Alfie Myrhe and Don Evoy, also known as the Alberta Travellers entertained on banjo, guitar, fiddle ... well, darn near anything with strings. Alfie has been the National Fiddle Champion many times and is the undisputed champ to most people.

Gabe and his partner Peter Chmiliar did their usual comedy routines, as well as emceeing the shows. Tim Wilson was musical director.

The first night they played at Port Radium to a packed house, and brought it down. It was the first time an entertainment package of this variety had played there. Much to the regret of the miners, the production flew on for Friday's show in Yellowknife.

The Yellowknife show was held in conjunction with the local Elks Club, to help raise money for NWT charities. It too was sold out and the crowd loved every minute of it.

On Saturday it was on to Uranium City where Echo Bay Mines and Eldorado Mines combined for the show. The proceeds from the show went toward sending the Oldtimer's Hockey Club to Japan next month. (Bet you didn't know there was a hockey team that far north).

The group was overwhelmed by the response of the audience as it was quite overpowering. In fact, the miners have been sending letters and a petition to Echo Bay Mines for a repeat performance every month. Well, for now it's a little out of the question, but Gabe told the Gazette that for sure he'd be heading north again with a group of professional entertainers. Bob Panich hopes he and the band will be able to go again, commenting that it was one of the most rewarding experiences of his life.

Gabe would like to thank Echo Bay Mines for the tremendous hospitality they showed, and would also like to thank the pilot, Bill Granley of St. Albert, the Stewardess Chris Dusza also of St. Albert and Jim Cranston co-pilot of Castle Downs for getting them home safely.

Teachers accept contract

Catholic School District teachers voted unanimously Thursday to accept a two year contract which gives them salary increases of 7.86% in 1979 and 7.94%.

Seventy teachers turned out for the vote. The contract also includes payment of Health Care premiums and increased principal's allowances.

Board considering dissolution tonight

Members of the Protestant School Board will be presented with information on the feasibility of the Separate district becoming part of the Public system at tonight's regular meeting.

Two weeks ago Trustee Gary Hodgins asked the administration to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of joining the Public (Catholic) system.

These were not available at press time.

The Alberta School Act sets out a procedure whereby the Board must conduct a plebiscite to determine whether ratepayers feel the District should be dissolved. If the vote is in favour of dissolution the Board must relay this information to the Minister of Education who will then issue an order dissolving the Board. The district and all residents will then become residents of the Public District effective the date of dissolution.

Members of the public interested in this potentially significant issue can sit in on the debate beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the District office (next to Fountain Park Recreation Centre on Sir Winston Churchill Avenue).

Cemetery issue referred again

The question of whether St. Albert will have a municipal cemetery and the Legion a Field of Honour has been held in abeyance once again after the Tuesday night meeting of the Municipal Planning Commission.

Ald. Rod Thronson said there were "a number of technical problems" connected with the $1 purchase, as the correct processes must be followed. These include obtaining permission to subdivide from the MD of Sturgeon, filing a plan of subdivision and applying to the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission. If and when ERPC permission is granted, surveys would have to be done, caretaking arrangements would have to be made and plots laid out, said Mr. Thronson.

Ald. Breadner said the matter should be dealt with as quickly as possible, but council was worried about the size of the site for the purpose set out and the suitability of the land use.

Planner Wayne Gordon said the facility would be in competition with other sites in the Metropolitan Edmonton region, and that the cost of maintenance would have to be considered. Ald. Breadner added that costs would have to be established before a fee structure could be established. He also stated that members of council had requested input from the ministerial association on the matter, with comment from the association on alternatives.

Ald. Thronson moved that the matter be referred to staff for comment and investigation of the issues raised. In presenting the motion the alderman remarked "We hate to push this but we got hit with this three weeks ago and now you're being hit with it. Many people in the city want this."

Mr. Gordon remarked that the city had approached the MD of Sturgeon concerning the matter but had received no response so far.

Sign aesthetics trouble planner

The Municipal Planning Commission was briefly concerned with a question of aesthetics Tuesday night, when the question of commercial signs was raised by Planning Director Wayne Gordon. Mr. Gordon said he would like "direction" from the MPC concerning the number and type of signs permitted when two businesses occupied one parcel of land. Mr. Gordon said the situation arose when two businesses both wished to erect pole signs on the same parcel. The signs in question would be 20-30 feet in height.

"This would mean two separate pole signs on one site," said Mr. Gordon. "Where do we draw the line? Is it onerous to state there should be only one per parcel, even when there is more than one business there?"

Mr. Thronson inquired if it is not common to see two signs sharing one pole. Mr. Gordon said it was, but that businesses with a national image or which owned substantial frontage particularly demanded such individual signs. In the latter case, the property owners pointed out that were their large parcel divided into three separate lots, there would still be more than one sign. Mr. Gordon said he had checked with other municipalities, but found no consistency of policy. He said that because his department had no discretionary powers in such matters he wished to be advised by the commission.

Ald. Breadner said it was difficult to respond to the issue raised, but Mr. Corrigan, city engineer stated he did not like big signs, as too many led to a brightly lit strip effect.

The discussion closed with no definite position being taken by the Commission.

Compromise yes - surrender no

The fat hit the fire with a mighty sizzle when an Edmonton daily broke a story on the city's plans for a mammoth annexation yesterday. Although Mayor Purves suggested the report was not accurate it appears that Edmonton's ambitions are indeed gigantic - to grow to over five times its present size, at the expense of its neighboring municipalities.

It would appear that Edmonton is going after a good deal more territory than it expects to get, with a view to gaining a reasonable boundary extension in all four directions. And Reeve Flynn is right when he says the costs of hearings to decide the questions involved will be enormous.

The refusal of the provincial government, in all the years since 1956, to give Edmonton any firm decision on its future boundaries has greatly inhibited the city's long-range planning, to the point where the situation is now viewed as critical. Edmonton clearly deserves to be heard.

The McNally Royal Commission completed in 1956 would have increased the area of the city from 41 to 112 square miles, and recommended one central municipal authority. The Hansen Report, which went to the government in 1968, recommended that the city, under one jurisdiction, should expand in all directions to 300 square miles. In 1973 the Future of This City report was submitted to Cabinet recommending unitary government for the area, and this was not responded to by government.

Then came the Alberta Land Use Forum set up by the Province and completed (after more than two years study) in 1976. The Forum advised adequate influence over development for Edmonton and unitary government for the Metropolitan region.

Now Edmonton has commissioned the Horizon 21 committee for a further study and review. This committee (in a report to the media on February 28) said that following a scathing attack (by MLA Jamison of St. Albert) on the Task Force report in 1976, the government was evasive about plans to implement the Forum's recommendations.

St. Albert has clouded the issue since the advent of Professor Plain's council in 1974. The city reversed its policy (in place since 1967), of growing away from Edmonton, and decided instead to grow toward its big neighbour. As our boundaries become joined it will be more difficult, especially for future generations, to maintain a separate identity. St. Albert's proposal to annex 6700 acres to the east (mainly) and south was presented to the Local Authorities Board in 1975, and over the next couple of years St. Albert turned down three schedulings by the Board for their case to be heard. Finally the annexation proposal was reduced to some 4700 acres, presently before L.A.B.

Meanwhile the B.A.C.M. (now Genstar) annexation to the northwest has been in limbo, despite the fact that oversize services had been put in by the developer; and despite the fact that the Standard General Plant was located here at the request of Mayor Gibbon's council, because they were a "major developer" in St. Albert. The plant employs 600 people.

In addition St. Albert now has plans to extend its boundary beyond Campbell Park, from the Park's one quarter section to six times that size, putting the proposed annexation on top of Castle Downs. This further compounds Edmonton's already serious lack of access roads and traffic problems. Edmonton has consistently opposed having St. Albert expand in this direction.

Edmonton also considers the situation unfair when St. Albert refuses to accept low cost housing.

On the matter of government the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission has proved itself ineffectual and wasteful, with a stack of reports and paper work that would fill a small book shop. Municipalities wrangle with each other and little is accomplished, since each municipality commissions its own studies on annexation, transportation etcetera anyway. Clearly 'metropolitan style' government has many drawbacks although it can be argued it is "closer" to the people and perhaps then more democratic.

The debate on unitary government will raise many issues on both sides, but it is very doubtful if a huge central unitary style would be more efficient.

A further complication in planning which the massive annexation would have to deal with is the position of acreage developments in the region.

Finally there can be no doubt whatsoever that Edmonton will continue to grow under the vigorous economy of the Province, and because of her favourable position as a gateway to the north.

Let St. Albert be fair and reasonable in considering Edmonton's needs, while taking the strongest possible stand against being gobbled up. We have a long history and have built up a strong sense of identity, both of which should be preserved. The M.D. of Sturgeon and our neighbouring towns and villages to the north are our natural allies in this matter, and also deserve our fair consideration of their needs and problems.

the responsibility of the children in her family to help with the farm and the family chores. When she was 13, her father died and the family, unable to carry on with the farm, moved into St. Albert.

Dr. Anderson married her husband on an Indian Reserve and they lived in Portland, Oregon. "He was a wandering Indian and we travelled much, but when business brought us back to St. Albert, I was so glad to be home."

It was some years after her mother's death that Dr. Anderson recalled her mother's deep concern about the language of her people. This concern fired her ideas about perpetuating her language, as did the fact that she and her nine brothers and sisters were prohibited from speaking Cree at school. She began what was to become her lifetime's work by compiling a dictionary using the Cree syllabic symbols. However, Cree is a primitive language with few words and many English words were difficult to translate. Her first class was started when she put a small ad in the paper and found to her surprise that 50 or more people were interested in studying Cree. She was able to find classroom space in the Charles Cammell Hospital and held a second class at the University. Her classes were made up of judges, policemen, social workers, nurses, counsellors, government officials and others who came in contact with the Indians. "Even being able to greet the Indian in his own language helped to set the tone."

Dr. Anderson was responsible for the formation of the Cree study department at Grant MacEwan Community College, where she served as a teacher. She also founded Cree Productions and acted as its president.

Since those first classes Dr. Anderson has gone on to write many more books for all levels of instruction and has spent many years teaching Cree. It was this dedicated work that won her an honorary degree from the University of Alberta.

Society president, Mrs. Renee Laird, thanked Dr. Anderson and presented her with an inscribed copy of the Society's publication, "St. Albert: A Pictorial History."

Joining Mrs. Laird and Dr. Anderson at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Rod Thronson, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Breadner, Father Colin Levangie, and Alex Irvine.

Father Levangie proposed the founder's toast, stressing that someday we would be scrutinized by historians in much the same way we look back on our founder and early settlers.

Following the dinner, Mr. Rod Thronson, acting mayor, brought greetings from the City. He spoke of the independence and stubbornness of Lacombe and compared it to the history of St. Albert over the past one hundred years. "The identity of a city," he said, "is based on its historical roots. As-suring this identity is the desire of both the city and the Historical Society."

MEETING FOLLOWS

During the annual meeting which followed the banquet, reports from the treasurer and the president recapped the work of the Society during the past year. Mrs. Laird stresses the work done to make the public aware of our heritage. The Pictorial History was a major undertaking. School presentations, museum tours and lectures sponsored by the Society and the St. Albert Further Education Council all contributed to making our history and the Society visible to the community.

Dr. J. W. Chambers conducted the election of officers which saw Mr. Bill Oakes elected as president. Serving with him in the forthcoming year will be Keith Bell, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Horne, secretary; Mrs. Ileen Alberts, treasurer; Mrs. Bertha Kennedy, Frank Turek and Mrs. Joan Kirsch, members at large.

The evening was rounded off by an auction of by-gones and collectibles conducted by Mr. Bob Russell. The Society would like to thank those persons who made donations for the auction.

SOCIETY GIVES CHEQUE

The Albert Lacombe Foundation is richer by $5,000 as a result of a donation from the St. Albert Historical Society. Society Past President Renee Laird is seen here presenting the cheque to city alderman Barry Breadner, vice-chairman of the foundation. The cheque was presented on Albert Lacombe Night, the occasion of the society's annual banquet and dance. The money will be used to continue the work being done on the Bishop's Residence.

Historic Foundation receives $5000

Directors of the recently formed Albert Lacombe Historic Foundation were among the guests of honour at the Historical Society's "Lacombe Night" at the Club Mocombo on Saturday, February 24. Mrs. Renee Laird, Society president, took the opportunity to present the Foundation with a cheque for $5000 and to wish the Foundation every success.

Mr. Barry Breadner, vice-chairman of the Foundation, accepted the cheque and briefly explained the role of the Foundation and its relationship with the Society. The Foundation, he said, is to concentrate on St. Albert's historical assets; its old buildings, and new facilities to house its artifacts. While the Foundation will be concerned with fund raising to assure the preservation of these historic assets, the Society will continue with its role of museum operation, public awareness, and education. Both organizations will co-operate closely with the city.

Mr. Breadner went on to explain the make-up of the Foundation, stating that the representative membership is made up of five appointed members from the city including the mayor, the City administrator, one alderman, and two appointments at large, three members from the Historical Society and additional members appointed from the School Boards, the Chamber of Commerce, the Inter-club Council, and the R.C. Parish, with additional members coming from the community.

The Foundation's Board of Directors was introduced; Mrs. Arlene Borgstede, chairman; Mr. Bob Byron, secretary; Mr. Vince Maloney, Mr. Jim Parker. Also on the board but not present were Mrs. Ann Smith, treasurer, and Mayor Ron Harvey.

The donation by the Society was made possible when the Provincial Government Historic Sites Board accepted the responsibility of moving and restoring the log chapel which now makes up the Father Lacombe Museum. This had been a major priority of the Society and funds had been set aside to start this project. The money will allow the Foundation to continue the work currently being done in the Bishop's Residence.

This building was declared a Classified Heritage Site by the Provincial Government in 1976 but has been unused and unheated for the past two and a half years. Owned by the Oblate Fathers, the building will be given to the Foundation for continued preservation if it is found to be feasible.

The Foundation has hired A.R. Merk and Associates to do soil studies around the site and a structural survey of the building to determine whether the damage done during the past two winters is irreversible. The first recommendation of the engineer was acted upon immediately and space heaters were set up in the building to try to counteract the damage being done to the foundations. The boiler will be fired soon in an attempt to get regular heating into the building.

On receipt of a favourable report from the engineers, the Foundation will consider possible uses that could be made of the Bishop's Residence and its restoration.

he said he would like to see the 'decriminalization' of Canadian history by eliminating American criminals (Jesse James, Billy the Kid) from student history courses. Asked if he didn't think the Alberta Heritage Learning Resources program was supplying a satisfactory product Mr. Petch replied he didn't think Canadian content was growing at a fast enough rate.

In the area of municipal affairs Mr. Petch again zeroed in on financing with rapid transit, a 'no strings attached' sharing of resource revenue, and special interest rates on loans from the Heritage Trust Fund important planks.

He would like to see the province pay 75 percent of "approved" costs of a rapid transit line between St. Albert and Edmonton and 75 percent of the capital costs of new recreational, park and tourist facilities. The province, he believes, should share 10 percent of its natural resource revenue with the municipalities on a 'no strings attached' basis (the formula is yet to be worked out). Borrowing from the Heritage Fund by the municipalities should be at a rate lower than that given Canadian provinces.

Mr. Petch is also in agreement with his party's philosophy behind 'Proposition 79' saying "it is wrong to tax citizens simply to create a surplus." Proposition 79 calls for the removal of provincial tax on incomes of $16,000 or less and would effect 75 percent of provincial taxpayers. The program would also save higher income earners an average of $1,250 per year.

The Party calculates the cut, amounting to approximately $500 million, will boost purchasing power in this province by $2 billion (using a multiplier of 4). Mr. Petch says the extra money available to Alberta consumers would help in home purchases, business investment or consumer items depending upon the individual's choice.

Notley here Friday

Provincial NDP leader Grant Notley will be in St. Albert Friday afternoon in the campaign office of Bob Borreson.

Notley, taking time out from a hectic pace that has him making stops all across the province, will be at the St. Albert Inn from 2-3 p.m. Borreson says in talking to voters his workers have identified transportation, property taxes, housing costs and the need for an effective opposition as some of the more notable concerns of the St. Albert constituency.

Friday, Borreson was in Willingdon where he joined Notley and Tommy Douglas speaking to a gathering of 500 enthusiastic supporters. News reporters following the election trail report positive voter response in several ridings in the north-eastern area of the province and the Willingdon meeting was anything but dull.

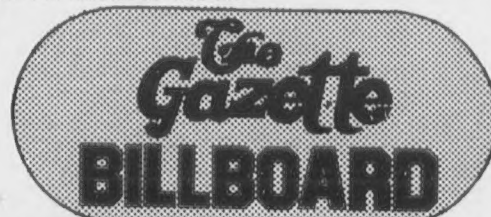

Borreson told the gathering that, "Alberta Tories believe there should be an atmosphere which encourages risk taking. For those people who believe in quality health care, the family farm, the family businesses there can be no greater risk than to vote Tory."

Interviews with all four candidates contesting the St. Albert constituency will appear in the March 7 issue of the Gazette. They will also be taking part in forums March 6 and 7. The Morinville Board of Trade will be sponsoring the March 6 forum in the Rec. Centre at 8 p.m. and Cable 5 will host an open line forum the next night.

After the St. Albert accounting firm changed from A. M. Wheeler to Wheeler and Szaszkiewicz it took the staff and customers a little while to get familiar with spelling the name of the new partner. Therefore Mr. Wheeler had a good laugh this week when he telephoned a government department to order some forms, and the fellow on the other end asked, "How do you spell Wheeler?"

CATHY TAYLOR AWARD

Tarena Thordson received the Cathy Taylor Award for Guides during ceremonies at the Roman Catholic Church, Friday. The ceremonies were part of Scout/Guide Week.

Girl Guides change age limits

In November 1978, the National Council of the Girl Guides of Canada - Guides du Canada unanimously voted to change the present age groupings, which are Brownies 7 to 10, Guides 10 to 14, and Rangers 14 to 17. The new Brownie age will be from 6 to 9, the Guide from 9 to 12, the new group from 12 to 15, and the Ranger from 15 to 17 plus. The cadet age will remain 15 to 21.

This change is not dealing with age alone. The decision was based on the opinions of experts in the field of child study, on input from Guiding sources and from other youth organizations in Canada, and through a dedicated process of study made possible by the complete involvement of Leaders from across Canada. A two year study was made of the needs and development of girls, their expectations at different ages, and requests from various quarters to include provision for younger girls in the guiding movement. Girl Guides of Canada - Guides du Canada is being presented with one of the greatest challenges in its history.

These new age groupings will enable the organization to better meet the needs of today's girl, to give the girls a greater opportunity for growth and development and to provide flexibility in the movement from one age group to the next. Also, the individual girl will be able to move on at her own speed with peer or interest groups. The change is made in accordance with the belief that the personal growth of the girl is the optimum aim.

Transition of girls from one group to another is being given careful consideration by National Committees. An Implementation Committee, made up of members of Canada's guiding movement with diverse backgrounds and experience, has been formed to decide on a uniform, name for the new group 12 to 15, recruitment and publicity. The National Program Committee will be rearranging the program according to the abilities of the girls in the new age groups. Very shortly an interim handbook, "The Bridge," will be published and made available to assist leaders during the transition period. It is the hope of the National Council to begin the implementation of these new age groupings by September of 1979 with full operation taking effect by September of 1980.

The Busy Bees, a junior group involving five and six year olds which is presently a pilot project in Alberta, will not be included in the new National age groupings. However, the existing junior groups may not be phased out until the last five year old girl has become six and is able to enter Brownies. Each girl presently in Brownies, Guides and Rangers will be able to take advantage of a full year's transition period between the groups. This will allow for differences in her readiness to progress.

The National Council feel that the decision regarding the new age groupings augurs well for the future of Guiding in Canada. This is a very important change as the Girl Guides of Canada - Guides du Canada moves closer to its 17th anniversary, in 1980, and reflects the organization's concern for the development of the individual girl and the future citizens of Canada.

City departments doing the shuffle

Mid-March will see four City of St. Albert Departments move locations, three of them to the new Mission Ridge Shopping Centre on McKenney Avenue.

The Community Services Department, now located on Muir Drive, the Assessment Department, located on Perron Street, and Engineering, presently in the City Hall basement, will all move to Mission Ridge Shopping Centre on the night of March 15. Any business conducted with these departments on the 16th will be done at the new premises.

The City's Planning Department, at the moment located on the main floor of City Hall, will move downstairs to where Engineering was. In its place, a new Data Processing Centre, complete with computer, will move into the void left by Planning.

The reason for the moves is two-fold. There will be some staff additions to most departments, while at the same time, the City would like to centralize its offices. The City's thinking is, if a department is not located in the City Hall, then it will be at Mission Ridge.

Costs of the move are not completely known yet. The actual moving job, to be done by Motor Truck Express, will cost about $1,600. There will be other miscellaneous charges, such as telephone hook-ups, etc.

The Mission Ridge offices will be on the second floor, in rooms 204, 206, 210 and 216.

The City still has about a year and a half left on the leases at both the Muir Drive and Perron Street locations. The City is working with the owners of the respective buildings in finding new tenants for the vacated locations. The Perron office has a total of just under 500 sq. ft., while the Muir location has about 2100 sq. ft.

Name correct on voters' list?

March 3 is the last day for voters to make any corrections on the voters' list. If you have not been enumerated or are unsure whether you are listed correctly be sure to contact the Returning Officer at her office in Mission Ridge Shopping Centre, St. Albert.

Advance polls for the March 14 election will run on the 7th, 8th and 9th. See next week's Gazette for times and places.

Four generations attend Christening

Four generations of one family gathered recently for the christening of one of its youngest members. Shannon Heather Kolind, daughter of Karl and Debra Kolind was christened at Westminster United Church in Edmonton the same church in which her parents were married two years ago. Godparents are Heather and Neil Kelly, formerly of St. Albert.

Following the service, an open house and reception were held at the home of her grandparents, Rena and Ron Yeats, 4 Gillian Crescent, St. Albert. Shannon and her mother and father travelled from Abbotsford, B.C. to be with the family on this occasion.

In attendance were Great Grandmother Elizabeth Hutchison, Grandparents Rena and Ron Yeats and Neils and Paula Kolind, aunts and uncles Kim and Rhonda Kolind, Mike and Gaby Kolind and Linda and Sandra Yeats. The occasion was made complete by the attendance of these many relatives and friends.

FOUR GENERATIONS

Help Society services show increased use

St. Albert residents are taking advantage of the services offered by the St. Albert Help Society, according to the Society's reports for 1978. The reports were given at the group's annual meeting held July 30.

First on the agenda was the election of officers, with a new board as follows: Ann Jwaszko, president; Susan Van Der Straten, secretary; Terry Regimbald, treasurer; Eleanor Campbell, vice-president; Mavis Allard, corresponding secretary; Bud Reiniger, publicity person; Hettie Blades, Eileen Fleming and Olga Buma.

Hettie Blades informed the group that Meals on Wheels showed a considerable increase over the past year, rising from 1656 in 1977 to 2505 in 1978. The number of Thursday users at the centre in 1977 was 86, rising to 116 in 1978. The Help Society attributes much of the success of the program to the Meals on Wheels Co-ordinator Olga Buma and her staff of volunteers. These meals are provided for those who are unable to cook proper meals for themselves because of age, or physical or mental disability.

Reporting for the Homemaker Service, Iris Bruce stated that this service had met the objective set out for 1978, meeting all requests for homemakers. Two hundred and seventy-eight men, women and children benefited from the presence of a homemaker during times of illness or other crisis. The Homemaker Service provides a replacement for mothers who must be absent for various urgent reasons, and so serves to keep families together.

The Mother's Day Out program has expanded to three days per week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Bud Reiniger told those in attendance the program runs from 9:15 - 3 each of these days, and starting April 1, it will increase to five days per week. From September of 1978 to January of 1979, 841 children and 154 mothers have benefitted from this service. Bud Reiniger is supervisor for this program.

Meals on Wheels, Homemakers and Mother's Day Out are all under the auspices of the St. Albert Help Society.

Mother's Day Out fills pressing need

Although the very idea may bring hoots of derision from men, most women will attest to the truth of the following statement: being a mother can be a high pressure job like no other, and its a 24 hour a day role. Understanding this, the St. Albert Help Society sponsors a program which allows moms to take the occasional breather and get away on their own for a few hours. The Mother's Day Out program is operated from the Braeside Presbyterian Church, although it is not affiliated with any church or denomination. It is supervised and co-ordinated by Bud Reiniger and assistants June Price, Sue Lowe, Paul-ette Dobler, Fran Rodgers and Lynn Druett. Candice Way and Leslie Gordon stand at the ready to fill in during emergencies. From September 1978 to January 1979, the program served 841 children and 154 mothers, an average of 14 children per day.

Although many others are advised to "take it easy" by doctors and other well meaning friends, the price of sitters and child care facilities prevents many mothers from getting that needed respite. The Mother's Day Out program has been designed as a partial solution to the financial problem. The fees are on a sliding scale, proportionate to annual gross income. This year, the program has managed to decrease its basic price. The fee schedule is as follows: Category 1, $14,000 and over, 1 child, $1.25, with additions of $.75 for two children and $.50 for a third child and $.50 for a fourth child; Category 2, $13,000-14,000, 1 child $1, with additions of $.70 for two children and $.45 for a third child and $.45 for a fourth child; Category 3, $12,000-13,000, 1 child, $.75 with additions of $.65 for two children, $.40 for a third child and $.40 for a fourth child. In Category 4, the fee is $.70 for one child or the first child, plus $.60 for a second child; plus $.35 for a third child and another $.35 for a fourth child. In Category 5, $10,000-11,000, the fee is $.65 for one child, plus $.50 for the second child, plus $.30 for a third child, and an additional $.30 for a fourth child. These rates are hourly. To illustrate this, a mother with three children whose gross income per year is $13,500 would pay $1.00 plus $.70 plus $.45, or $2.15 per hour.

The program rate has been lowered because more people are using the program on more days, resulting in greater income. In addition the program's provincial budget has been increased.

Mother's Day Out receives 20 percent of its funding from the City of St. Albert and 80 percent from the province, through Preventive Social Services. The program has further been assisted by donations from the Community League, Knights of Columbus, Kinettes and the St. Albert Parish. Other generous individuals have donated toys and baby's wear.

Those who run the program feel that an alternative to an extensive Mother's Day Out program would be a volunteer bureau, which could take on some of the child care duties, thus relieving the congestion often felt at the program's headquarters. They feel the fact that the program is extending their days of operation to five per week indicates there is a need for this kind of service in the community.

Library fees rise for non-residents

People living outside of St. Albert's city limits will now have to pay more to use the city library. At its February meeting, the Library Board agreed to increase the annual fee from $7.50 to $15., and to make this a family membership. Thus, only one card will be needed for each family, enlarging their access to the library's resources.

This revenue will be used to assist in the library's daily operating budget, which is used to purchase books and other library materials, pay salaries, etc. As these costs are mounting, the Board felt a higher non-membership fee would be equitable to help compensate for this higher fee, the Board, as noted above, is extending the fee to be a family membership, so that one payment will cover all the members of the family.

PREPARING TO FIRE A POLITICAL SALVO?

Provincial Liberal Leader Nick Taylor took time out to discuss firearms with a clerk at Macleods during his recent hand shaking tour through Grandin Mall. Nick was in the St. Albert riding, adding a little 'fire power' to Liberal Candidate Gerry Thibault's cause.

Liberal leader tours constituency

Saturday morning 'Taylor's Albertans' took up the cudgels in St. Albert constituency attacking the Conservative administration's handling of the Heritage Trust Fund and French language rights.

Speaking at the Chateau Sturgeon Home in Legal, Mr. Taylor compared the Conservative's policy of turning oil into cash to that of a 60 year old farmer who sold his farm thinking he could live off the interest on the money he got for it. Ten years later the interest and the principle are all gone due to inflation and the old farm is worth five times what it was when he sold it.

Taylor told his audience that the Alberta government would be better off turning oil revenue into cash at a rate consistent with its cash needs and not as fast as it can be brought from underground. This policy, he said, would ensure more oil for Albertans in the future when it would be worth more than it is today.

Taylor, accompanied by St. Albert Liberal candidate Gerry Thibault, stopped briefly to mainstreet in Morinville before dropping into Grandin Shopping Centre to shake hands and talk politics with shoppers and merchants.

Last stop was the Youville Home where Taylor and Thibault congratulated Georges Bugnet on his 100th birthday. Neither Taylor nor Thibault speak French but federal Liberal candidate Len Nobert bridged the language gap as the entourage mingled with the predominantly French speaking residents in casual conversation.

One resident thought the Alberta Liberal leader was Gordon Taylor (the colourful ex-Social cabinet minister) or at least a relation. After explaining he was neither, NICK Taylor said "Taylors have a natural aptitude for politics."

Another resident asked Mr. Nobert which party would win and Mr. Nobert replied, "We are. Anyone who calls an election in this cold deserves to lose."

Candidate Thibault, a relative newcomer to the area, made good use of his time introducing himself to prospective voters.

Taylor wound up the visit with an attack on the PC attitude toward french language rights. He said he was very concerned that Premier Lougheed says "don't worry about french language rights" in the constitution. "How can we expect rights in Quebec if Lougheed doesn't give them in Alberta."

Both language groups, said Mr. Taylor, should feel they have the whole country protecting them. "We should reinforce and back each other." He told listeners that he had three children attending French language schools but busing was expensive as were other costs. He said more money was needed for French language education. "Money is needed to make it work because it is a right."

Taylor ended his talk with a 'veiled' reminder to the voters. "We want an election, not a coronation."

Speaking with the Gazette reporter, the Liberal leader admitted the PC's would likely win between 75 and 79 seats but added that he doubted Lougheed wanted that result. He said his travels about the province suggested to him that the Liberals were running second in several constituencies. Still he felt Clark, Notley and he would have a real fight to win their own constituencies.

No. 533 RC(Air)C Squadron

St. Albert Air Cadets in Review

By Sgt. C. Leibel

A while back, during Christmas holidays, some of 533 Squadron's cadets participated in a search and rescue operation. The search was for the four Saskatchewan residents whose plane went down somewhere between Red Deer and Kamloops. Thursday the following cadets were awarded with certificates for volunteering for this mission: WO 2 Fecteau, Flt/Sgt. L. Hymers, Sgt. C. Coates, Sgt. M. Grieve, Cpl. K. Doyle, Cpl. D. Graham and LAC K. Newstead. In spite of their great efforts the plane was not recovered but cadets did have a memorable experience.

Saturday, February 24 and Sunday, February 25, 533 cadets delivered the new 1979 telephone books in the St. Albert area. On behalf of 533 squadron, I would like to thank parents and Lions Club members who participated by driving and/or helping in anyway. Over 10,000 books were delivered throughout the St. Albert area.

533 Squadron's Band will take part in the grand opening of St. Albert's new McDonald's by participating in a parade on March 1. All band members and colour guard are urged to attend and support our first parade of the year.

Range and drill practices will be held on Sunday. Range practice will start at 10 a.m. and go until 12 noon. Any cadets interested in firing the new .177 mm air rifles please attend. Cadet I.D. cards must be shown for admittance to the range.

The senior drill team will practice from 12 noon until 02:00 p.m. followed by the junior drill team whose practice will be from 02.00 p.m. to 04.00 p.m. Practice is a must for competitions are rapidly approaching.

Information on joining #533 Squadron can be obtained at the Community Hall Thursday evenings at 07.00 p.m.

ATA, ASTA urge study of education issues

The Alberta Teachers' Association and the Alberta School Trustees' Association have jointly urged the public to examine educational issues seriously during the election campaign, and asked candidates to state their views openly on several of these issues.

The request to candidates was made in a letter signed by presidents of both associations.

Citing the decline from over 20 percent to about 16 percent in the proportion of provincial expenditure going to basic education since 1971, ASTA President Scott Saville asked candidates to make clear where education fits in their priorities.

ASTA's SAVILLE

... make education a priority

"Education no longer seems to have the status it once had," he said. "We want candidates to share with the public the positive actions they would take to give educational concerns a high priority."

ATA President K. M. Kryzanowski joined in the call for a higher priority for education. He criticized government funding policy which is shifting the costs of education from the province to local property owners. Property owners now must pay twice as much toward education costs as they did in 1971, he noted, with current provincial funding resulting in the "slow financial starvation of education."

"We join the ASTA in asking candidates to state openly whether they believe local property owners should continue to shoulder this higher proportion of school funding. We hope the public will question candidates as to whether they support this shift in the cost of education," he said.

Both presidents called for clear statements of party and candidate long-range educational plans.

"We want to know where the parties would take us, particularly in the area of education of the handicapped," Mr. Saville said. "The ASTA joins the ATA in asking candidates to state openly their long-range plans for education, and where teachers and trustees fit in these plans."

Coherent social planning and the development of facilities and programs which would reduce delinquency and family break-down were sought by Mr. Kryzanowski. Schools must cope with the problems of a rapidly developing economy, he noted, and adequate libraries and recreational facilities are needed, particularly in "boom" areas, if schools are to function as an effective part of the community.

"The questions we raise are not easily answered," Mr. Kryzanowski said, "but by asking each candidate and individual voters to discuss them seriously, we hope to see a government elected March 14 which is prepared to give children -- the greatest natural resource we have -- a high priority during the next four years."

The beginning - Winnifred Stewart

A mentally retarded person growing up in Alberta before 1953 had few educational options. Tappayers' money was not available to those who could not be educated in an ordinary school. Retarded children therefore either stayed at home, or were admitted into the Alberta School Hospital at Red Deer.

Parents generally accepted a hopeless fate for their retarded offspring. Not so Winnifred Stewart, a registered nurse whose son Parker was mentally retarded. Contemporary educators believed that education would not benefit Parker.

Mrs. Stewart challenged that he could and should learn. On April 6, 1953, she and a "staff" of 18 volunteers set out to prove it. They began by teaching 25 mentally retarded children in the Recreation Commission Building in Edmonton. The curriculum was simple: basic academics and social graces.

"Winnie's" school grew rapidly. Forty children enrolled in August 1953. To accommodate them, an Air Force hut was bought and set on land donated by the city ... at the present location. Still registration soared. In 1955 it reached 144 students, and a larger, regular school was built. Edmonton merchants and the Auctioneers' Association of Alberta lent a helping hand. The Provincial Government also did its share. It responded with grants of about two-thirds of the school's operation costs. And the school was a resounding success. By 1975 three more additions had been made and the enrollment was 428 students to 75 teachers.

Twenty-six years later, mentally retarded children in Edmonton enjoy a variety of options. But the Winnifred Stewart School is still very much in demand. Today it features two gymnasiums, a swimming pool, a large craft centre containing such equipment as: looms, potters' wheels, kilns, modern printing equipment, wood-working machinery etc. Well developed programs of speech therapy, occupational therapy, behavior modification, etc., enhance the individualized curriculum. These, and various integrated events throughout the year, help prepare the student for the outside world.

The school is one of the services offered by the Edmonton Association for the Mentally Retarded. The Association, established simultaneously with the school also operates a fleet of 25 buses, two large residences, and as of recently, a sheltered workshop. The latter serves people who have graduated from school ... with no place to go after.

The Edmonton Association for the Mentally Retarded has grown into a 1.6 million dollar operation. Much of this is covered by government grants, but there remains $300,000, to be raised in 1979 through charitable donations and fund raising drives such as the February Auction, the May Blitz and the November Tea.

SCIENCE GENIUS

Carey Brightwell demonstrates his science fair project on static electricity at W.D. Cuts school. Carey's and displays by other budding scientists are on display at schools in the Protestant Separate District. (See story).

Meet me at the fair

Once again it is the time of year for all the students in School District #6 to plunge their theories, research, apparatus, experiments and eventually their parents into "Science Fair."

Each year students, with encouragement and guidance from parents and teachers, are involved in some kind of science project. Individuals are given the chance to display their knowledge on a topic of their choosing and at the same time, put into practice theoretical investigational techniques they have been learning in class.

In addition to science, this project utilizes skills in many other areas. For example in the language arts area students must use their spelling, composition, reporting and researching skills. They will need to make calculations, metric conversions, graphs etc. - all directly related to math. In the art area they will be making backdrops (if they desire), constructing models, drawing diagrams, taking photographs, etc.

Through their participation in a science fair children learn more about the unknown and challenging nature of science and its conceptual frameworks while having fun doing so.

We can give support and encouragement to the scientists of the 21st century by coming out to view completed projects on March 14 at Sir George Simpson School. Please note further details in subsequent issues of The Gazette.

The Skeptics Tank

By Vicky Knight

This week's Tank will confine itself to some truncated comments about a slew of totally unrelated topics. The style of the column represents the week I've undergone, one of fractured concentration and energies more depleted than those of the U.S.

First, I'd like to use my dwindling powers to give a loud huzzah for Cosmos Greek Village Restaurant, 10312 - 111 Street, Edmonton. Four of us ambled in there the other night, our minds still dazed from the wonders of "Superman". Wow! Once in the door, it was like being zapped into another land. The air even seemed balmy, and the conversation ricochets around the room.

This restaurant has none of the ponderous, red brocade and baked potato feeling of the city's all too numerous steak houses. Nor is it tricked out to be A-little-come-of-Athens-on-Jasper Avenue. Instead, it is an exercise in good taste and the good life. Everyone looked as if they were delighted to be there, with none of that starched collar, best behaviour stiffness. The food is ambrosial. I had the Cosmos platter, which bears enough food to feed a small Third World nation for a week - stuffed grape leaves; spinach pie, barbecued lamb that will make a lamb-lover out of the most rabid beef fiend, moussaka, salad with feta cheese and other nameless delights. The rest of the group 'pigged out' on rabbit casserole, stuffed peppers and stuffed tomatoes. Somewhere in the course of the meal, three of the waiters spontaneously dropped their trays and flung themselves into a Greek dance with great abandon. The diners clapped enthusiastically and some even burst into song. It was hard to remember we were in Edmonton, not so long ago famed as the beer and bingo capital of the Bible belt. The ouzo flowed and the conversation with it. It was a magical evening, the next best thing to a somnolent cruise of the Greek Isles themselves. I'd recommend this restaurant to anyone who likes good food, a warm atmosphere and the best people-watching this side of the Corona lobby. P.S. It's also a great place for women to dine sans male companions. Quite a few tables of two, four or six women were there, and were treated royally, not like the pariahs they are made to feel in some restaurants - no tables by the kitchen door if you know what I mean. Teetotalers too are not made to feel unnatural for rejecting the ouzo in favour of ginger-ale. Be sure to reserve, it's a popular spot.

With that flight into rapturous hyperbole over, I'll now resume my usual plaintive tones and carp a little bit about the state of sidewalks in St. Albert. Each day, when no-one can be inveigled to drive me, I trek across the snows of Mission Avenue to make my way to the Gazette. The trip always puts me in mind of that nameless American who said to writer Walter Stewart "Oh yes, I know about Canada - whenever I think of it I picture all those Canadians, walking to work across the tundra." Now, at the time I read that, I roared with laughter, but I've begun to see a bit of grim truth in it. Mission Avenue sidewalks bear an all-too-close resemblance to tundra. The stretch in front of Father Jan School has not been shovelled in recent memory, and the going is tough, over rutted snow slicked down to a lethal finish.

Mission Park has more seniors living in it than any other neighborhood, and the walk downtown is treacherous. Will anyone hear this, and take up the shovel in response? I'm sure you can dig it.

It seems that some of our city planners have taken an aversion to unsightly signs that are beginning to pepper commercial districts. Well, I agree that neon monuments and gaudy towers glorifying mufflers, pizzas, gas guzzlers and other modern necessities are not everybody's poison. BUT, any attempt to dictate aesthetics can only lead to a terrible tangle of conflicting viewpoints. Should the signs be 50 feet or five; should garish neon be allowed, or merely eye abrading white fluorescents? Is there anything to choose between the lot? Will General Motors be happy to see itself advertised on a 2x4' wooden board, the kind of sign that usually announces "Dew Drop Inn" outside someone's cottage? The prime consideration of a healthy commercial district is not aesthetics, and planners should face this cold economic fact. The best they can hope for is a clean, well-planned and functional business community.

Stage West

Cast revitalizes indifferent play

By Vicky Knight

I have to hand it to the cast of "Barefoot In The Park," now playing at Stage West. I actually found myself chortling away at this Neil Simon play about newlyweds in New York, despite the fact that this made the twentieth time I had seen it. It must be Simon's most over-performed work, and is not one of his strongest efforts. It seems to follow one about, from the late show, to the local little theatre group, to the high school, to the dinner theatre. However, although I question the choice, of material, there is no doubt that this was a fine and funny production which gave new vitality to the familiar lines.

First, a word about Michael Bell. Mr. Bell's performance should put an end for once and for all to the snide remarks about his work for a certain local furniture dealer. (The twits making such jibes don't seem to realize that living from the avails of acting in this country is on a par with panning for gold. Unless you have a unique disdain for food and shelter, you'd better find something else to do between nuggets). He has become a painstaking actor, whose growth is evidenced in every performance in which he appears. As Paul Bratter, the slightly stuffy young lawyer, he is very funny, doing a better job than the wooden Robert Redford in the film version. His drunk scene has been meticulously crafted and is not overdone. He wobbles on India rubber legs, holding forth with the silly solemnity of the truly tanked. Paul's lines reflect an arid wit and Mr. Bell has mastered the necessary low-key delivery.

Lucinda Hutchins has the exhausting role of Corrie, Paul's wife and she romps through it with undiminished verve. The part requires tremendous ebullience of which Ms. Hutchins has buckets. Her face is capable of instant changes in expression, from beaming enthusiasm to stormcloud sulks. Although she is a trifle over-exuberant at times, she is very appealing in a part that seems to tempt actresses to rowdy overacting or excessive sweetness. However, for the most part, she was able to toe this fine line. Her Carrie was radiant and irritating at the appropriate moments, although I would have enjoyed it more had she introduced an occasional moment of reflection as a middle ground between these emotional extremes.

The Stage West audience gets a double bonus this time in the persons of Hans Conried and Jane Kean. Their presence was the finishing filip, the kind of masterstroke that makes a boeuf bourginonne from a good ragout. (On reflection this appears an unflattering metaphor, but as an unrepentant glutton, I think it's high praise). Mr. Conried is Victor Velasco, the bon vivant who lives up the ladder in the attic. His controlled, elegant performance is a treat. The scene where he makes mock advances on the quaking Corrie is a riot. He appraises her with glittering lechery, which suddenly transforms to a benevolent twinkle, as he explains he is not really "The Bluebeard of 48th Street". Corrie is fascinated by his mercurial charm and it isn't hard to see why.

The role of Corrie's staid, suburban mother is a choice one, and Jane Kean exploits all its potential. Mom is a valiant "good sport," who gags down ouzo and Armenian delicacies with fatalistic courage. Miss Kean (Trixie of the Honeymooners) is no stranger to such drollery and her timing and sense of comedic limits is subtle. When she bemoans the fact that she hasn't dressed suitably for a blind date, she concludes with horror "He'll think I'm a nurse!" She broke me up, even though the line itself is only mildly funny.

Those who have ruled "Barefoot in the Park" off their schedules on the grounds of over-familiarity should reconsider their decision. This is a delightful production.

Music ... as I hear it!

By Razbo

Here's an exclusive from Steve Winter. Steve Winter is a friend of mine who writes a music column called "The Rock Pile," which is distributed through other newspapers across Canada. Steve is currently doing a story on the group One Horse Blue, and dropped this story in the mail to me, for an exclusive local angle.

St. Albert's Ron Vaugeois is making his voice heard across the country.

The bandleader of Vera Cruz recording artists One Horse Blue sings the lead vocal on their theme song and current hit "One Horse Blue," which was the number four song on Edmonton pop charts at the beginning of February.

You might say One Horse Blue is a 10-year overnight sensation. The band didn't take final shape until December 1977, and had a Top 10 hit in Edmonton five months later. The band members each average about 10 years of serious experience in music.

The band consists of three guitarists, a bassist, pedal steel guitarist and Ron on drums. They belt out an ever-tighter fusion of heavy rock, blues and country postures that is attracting attention for markets from Vancouver to Toronto.

"I was playing in St. Albert bands for about six years," says Ron of his roots. "At the time, there was only one band entirely from St. Albert."

After honing his technique to a finer edge, he took up residence in studios, drumming and singing for the likes of R. Harlan Smith, Diamond Joe White, The Foreman Young Band and Mavis McCauley.

The first major step toward forming One Horse Blue was made while he worked in an Edmonton studio, the present home of Vera Cruz Records.

"At the time," he recalls, "I was an engineer at Sundown Recorders. The group lost their drummer, so they took me on."

That group was Pickins, which included at times, every member of One Horse Blue except for bassist Randy Lloyd; and Vern Wills, now half of the nucleus of Fosterchild, a foothills act receiving a lot of attention with CBS.

They experimented with the Pickins sound, which Ron says leaned too much toward traditional country music for the liking of the members. A hard rock edge was added, personnel changed and One Horse Blue came on the scene.

The band's name originates with Paul Cotton, mainstay with Poco, a countryrock band which has had a major influence on this band's sound.

He penned a tune called "One Horse Blue" that Pickins performed for some time. It came up as a possible group name, the band liked it, and One Horse Blue it will remain.

Poco is not the only influence evident in the band's sound.

"We have been influenced by several bands," explains Ron, including the Marshall Tucker Band, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, whose classic "Ohio" is devoted to a showcase of the band's talents; the Eagles, and of course, the Beatles.

Guitarist Mike Shellard, who played with Ron in another incarnation, the Bluebirds, quips "I think anyone who ever picked up a guitar has been influenced by the Beatles."

It comes as no surprise, then, that their first album is largely a tribute to those influences, and as such does not totally reflect the present sound of the band.

"That's the worst album you'll ever hear from us," cautions Ron. "We've already got cuts recorded for the second album." He promises a better showing next time out.

The band joins a growing number of Canadian recording acts signing with small labels. Aside from One Horse Blue, Vera Cruz handles Mavis McCauley, with whom the band collaborates at times; Fustukian and Karroll Brothers.

"It's really a neat little thing. We all know each other and work together. It's easier to keep tabs on where everything is," he says.

"It's a label we can experiment with."

"I know what it would have been like with a major label. Unless the label is super-interested in the group, they'll give you the push for six weeks, and if you don't start to do things, there's no more push."

"As it is with Vera Cruz, we're their number one act."

The personal attention they receive as a result has helped expose the band to a wider market, increasing their popularity.

The band also receives a better financial deal. Ron claims he's in one of the few Canadian bands that is actually making a living for its members, no easy task for a six-man group.

Ron's life right now is music.

"If I wasn't in One Horse Blue, I'd probably be writing songs."

He co-wrote with Mavis McCauley one of the heaviest songs on the first album, "Love Like a Fire." If the next album takes longer than expected, look for it to be released as a single.

"Some of my tunes are pretty heavy," he admits modestly. "I'm fairly new at writing. I've only been writing for two years." Most of the band has been writing much longer.

The songwriting duties taken up by the other members are replaced by administrative duties Ron must perform as bandleader.

Ron Vaugeois is the name that goes on the union application; he signs performing contracts; he arranges equipment deals; he engineers the tracks recorded by the band in the studio.

But the music's the main thing, and he has definite ideas about how it should come across, ideas that must blend with those of the other members.

He's not too pleased with the state of pop music today.

"A lot of it's being overrun with disco. I think there's a lot more than we need for one particular kind of music."

"It's always going to be around, of course," he adds, implying that the down-with-disco set had better get used to it.

Fans can rest assured that One Horse Blue is in a fairly comfortable position right now. Please Turn to Page A 15

Northern Light goes back to its origins

In the fall of 1975, having completed its first season and quickly established itself as one of Edmonton's major theatres, Northern Light "returned to its roots" with a simple collage presentation called Lifescenes. The company had chalked up a row of successes and looked forward to a new period of growth and development.

In many ways, the current production of Take Me Where The Water's Warm is a culmination of the work of the last three years. It melded two aspects of Northern Light's operation which director Scott Swan has particularly pursued, by taking advantage of the ensemble talents of the theatre's resident company of actors in a new play by an Edmonton playwright, James DeFelice. The DeFelice play, "Take Me Where The Water's Warm" has been held over until February 25.

And so it would seem to be time to pause again, to reach back - before charging forward - to the simple beauties of the actor's gesture and the writer's word, which remain the bases of Northern Light's firm and recognizable house style. In fact, Northern Light is reaching back to its very beginnings -- to Love and Drollery, the lovely collage of Elizabethan prose, poesy, and song which first introduced the company to the City in March of 1975. It will feature five actors who were among the first to perform at Northern Light, all, notably, still very much with the company: C. Holte Davidsson, Angela Gann, Merrilyn Gann, Allan Lysell, and Scott Swan. The compilation and direction is by Scott Swan; design by Diz Marsh.

Love and Drollery will be performed at lunch-hour and on weekend evenings, March 7 through 25 only, at the Edmonton Art Gallery Theatre. The 45 minute performances are given Tuesday through Friday at 12:10 p.m., Saturday at 7:30 and 9 p.m., and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available in advance at all Bay outlets (Downtown, Southgate, Londonderry - ph. 424-0121), the Students' Union box office in the Hub Mall (ph. 432-5145), and the Northern Light Theatre box office (ph. 429-3110). Tickets will be on sale at the door as available.

now. Up to now, country-rock bands have not been too successful north of the border.

By adding a heavier tinge to country-rock, Ron Vangois and company may well help change that situation, opening up a brand new avenue of musical expression in Canada.

PUBLIC STEEL GUITAR SEMINAR

Two professional steel players, Al Brisco and Al Gain from Toronto, have started the Pedal Steel Guitar Club of Canada. The purpose of the club is mainly to promote steel guitars and steel guitar players. It will strive to create better communication among players, so they can gain information on new equipment, playing styles, new licks, ...well, all you could want to know about steel. As well, it will inform the musicians about courses, albums, seminars and jam sessions.

While things are much more secure in the East, through the energies of people like our own Norma and John Lacey, prospects for a good steel atmosphere, in the West looks very promising. Norma is busily preparing news letters and organizing other promotional material and events. So far, the Lacey's in conjunction with Panich Music, have held two steel seminars and have another one scheduled for March 25, in the St. Albert Legion Hall. There will be continuous music from 2 to 9 p.m. as many area musicians play together. This is the first time that the seminar has been open to the public, and judging by the last two, it is definitely something to take in. There will be a small

RUSTY NAIL.

Rusty Nail really shone last weekend during a tour of northern mining towns. The gentlemen (and I don't use the term loosely) deserve commendation not only for their fine musical ability, but also for being ambassadors of fun and goodwill where ever they go. I know that sounds a little heavy, but if you ever get a chance to hear them, take it.

The band consists of Laverne Panich, Bob Panich, Paul Gandziola, and Bill Hersh who substituted for Nail's regular bass player.

There are 89 good reasons to vote New Democrat.

Here are three:

To bring the Heritage Trust Fund into the open under Legislative control and use it as the basis for a thorough economic strategy to co-ordinate Alberta's successful and prosperous entry into the 21st Century.

To bring down the cost of housing to reasonable levels with a land speculation tax to control developer profits and an urban land reserve to provide lots at cost.

To ensure the development of thriving family farms through a program of limiting farm input costs and income stabilization.

Tom Kneebone and Jack Medley seem to share a private joke in Brandon Thomas's play 'Charley's Aunt' now playing at the Citadel.

'Charley's Aunt' revamped - Victoriana sadly missing

By Ricky Knight
This week at the Citadel, "Charley's Aunt" is dragged screaming into the 20th century, but the poor old dear is decidedly disgruntled by the trip. While some plays respond well to the time-warp treatment, a comedy of manners does not, for the simple reason that social behavior is constantly changing. Unlike the universal themes of Richard III, which are still pertinent today, the manners and mores of the Victorians were temporal (thank God) and appear quaint and somewhat unreal to modern audiences. This play needs the feeling of overstuffed opulence, and rooms crammed with horse-hair furniture, antimacassars had potted palms. It was a cramped, constrained period and the airy spaciousness of Lawrence Schafer's set suggests a freedom that did not exist. It is not enough to have Victoria and Albert looming rather obviously over the set to indicate the era.

The radically stripped-down setting also had a disastrous effect on the play's comedic values. The frenetic comings and goings should emphasize the ludicrous intrigues that are central to the plot, and doors are essential to attain the right air of noisy hyperactivity. Without them, the perpetual racing back and forth is more suggestive of an Olympic track meet than a Victorian drawing room.

Within these limitations, the cast performed admirably. The sight of Tom Kneebone in billowing black bombazine, flying through the air on a wire, cackling wildly provided a lovely moment that will remain indelibly etched in my mind, to be recalled in moments of gloom. Mr. Kneebone's antics grew a little wild and unrestrained at times, as he exploited the slapstick aspects of the part, but he was still very funny. He pranced about coyly, seeming to have a marvellous time in what must be an exhausting role. The conflict of lechery and solicitude on his face as he shepherds his two feminine charges about was priceless.

As the two swains, Reg Tupper and Christopher Gaze, were superbly sophisticated with their scrubbed faces and hyperkinetic behavior, Gaze looks positively cherubic as he reels about the stage, dazzled by the rapid charms of Miss Amy Spettigue, played to a tee by Camille Mitchell. Ms. Mitchell looks like a Dresden doll and gives us a character so refined as to suggest her veins run with lavender water rather than blood. She is the perfect foil to Kitty Verdun as rendered by Kerrie Keane. Ms. Keane gives Kitty more spunk, and a hint that her Victorian manners are a veneer assumed to conform with the times, rather than an integral part of her character.

Walter Massey was appropriately bluff and florid as Sir Francis Chesney, and Jack Medley was a nice contrast, with his black, bearded brows and menacing countenance.

I particularly liked Linda Rabinovitch as Donna Luisa D'Alvadorez. Donna Luisa is the only true sophisticate on the scene and Rabinovitch conveys this with subtlety rather than opting for a more obvious approach. She can say much with a simple posture or quirk of an eye.

brow. Whereas Rabinovitch is the sophisticate with a kindly heart; Shay Garner is ethereal, with inner steel. It is a nicely balanced cast.

I wish I could say that I thoroughly enjoyed "Charley's Aunt," but I was too distracted by annoyance at the unnecessary monkeying that had been done with it. The mind constantly has to work to keep the character in their Victorian environment, rather than being able to freely enjoy the lovely silliness of it all.

Lt. Governor visits Vital Grandin

On Tuesday, February 27, the Grade 4 students of Vital Grandin School participated in a program of activities honoring the visit of His Honour, the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, Ralph Steinbauer.

His Honour was greeted by an honour guard of students and escorted to the Library. On display were samples of the students' notebooks, posters and art work dealing with two main topics: Native Indians of Alberta and the Government of Alberta At Work.

After the singing of O'Canada, His Honour was introduced by the principal, Mr. J. Patterson. Greetings from St. Albert School District #3 were extended by the assistant superintendent, Mr. George Soetaert. A special welcome was given by the students. Lieutenant Governor Steinbauer was presented with a student designed program.

The students of Grade 4B enacted an operetta entitled "How the West Was Won," which traced the significant events in the history of Alberta.

Following a talk by the Lt. Governor the students participated in a lively question period dealing with the related Social Studies topics. Mr. Steinbauer was presented with mementos of his visit by the students. These included "an old book about an old community" - "St. Albert" and a "new book of old pictures" - "St. Albert, A Pictorial History."

The Lt. Governor was also requested to become an Honorary Member of Vital Grandin School - with a gift of a V.G. T-shirt "to wear in friendship." A City of St. Albert pin was also presented.

An informal tea party followed, during which the students and Mr. Steinbauer became better acquainted.

It was truly a historical morning for the Grade four students and their teachers. Carol Bodie, and Mrs. Vera Graham, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson. They are to be commended for a job well done.

Roller Skating anyone? Enterprise has planned an evening at Sports World on March 21. There will be a bus leaving the Teen Centre at 5:15 p.m. that Wednesday. The cost is only $4 which includes admission and skates. The bus has a limited number of seats so you'd better get your ticket early. Remember, Sports World has a "no jeans" dress code. We expect this to be a popular event and hope to see more in the future.

"Operation Enterprise" our weekly TV show, seen Wednesday nights at 9:00 p.m. on Cable five, this week features Part II in a series of discussions on drugs, alcohol and teens. With us this week is John Mitchel, a resident of St. Albert, who has been working with AADAC for a number of years.

This week's episode of "SUDS" is entitled "Battle of the Sexes." Trouble is brewing when the gals try to overrun the hard working male jocks in the gym at Albert Cane High.

The Enterprise Gang will be out in full force again at Grandin Shoppers Park on Saturday. Tickets for BIM BOM BOOM will be on sale. BIM BOM BOOM is a trio of superb artists from the world famous MOSCOW CIRCUS. Their show is on March 12, 7:30 p.m. at VJM School, will include juggling, balancing, magic and comedy skits - something for everyone, ages four to 104. Get your tickets early to avoid disappointment.

Paul Kane Kibitzer

By Shauna Oor

It was nice to see the students of Paul Kane interested in the recent eclipse of the sun, who, even though there was quite a nip in the air, turned out with their welders glass and filtered cameras, to witness and record the eclipse. Indoors, teachers and students gathered in the library to watch live coverage on the television.

Personally, I was a little disappointed. I spend the early part of the morning watching the eclipse on T.V., then I could stand it no longer and ran to the nearest window to see if the entire country had been plunged into darkness...It hadn't. Obviously misinformed, I waited patiently for it to become horrifying dark, expecting to hear dogs and other such animals screaming in fear, expecting to see lightning flash, and thunder roar. Then suddenly the sun would reappear; birds singing etc. If that isn't naive, I don't know what is.

When, of course, none of that happened, I was left with a feeling of deprivation. Here it was, the last eclipse for thirty-eight years and I missed it! When I was informed later, by a future astronomer, that I had in fact, witnessed the whole thing, I was slightly more confused. We should have a "knowing what to look for when viewing your average eclipse" organization.

Just a reminder to all, about the blood clinic being held here at the school in the Theatre Arts Room on Friday, March 9. Donors must be 17 or over and are advised to have a bite of something before donating.

Recently our school was visited by a group of band students from Newcastle, Ontario. The band played at the school on Friday night. Our own senior band is hoping to raise enough money to fund a trip to Ontario. To help pay for the trip, they will be holding a Band-A-Thon on Saturday, March 10 at the Grandin Shoppers Mall. They start playing at 10:00 a.m.

Ontario band visits Paul Kane

The Clarke High School Band from Newcastle, Ontario visited St. Albert last week before leaving yesterday for a day of skiing.

Accompanied by Band Master Mr. Scoffield and Principal Mr. Wotherspoon

he band gave concerts at Lorne Akins and W.D. Cuts schools as well as joint band concert with the Paul Kane band Friday. The Clarke High School Choir also performed with the band Friday night.

The Ontario school, like Paul Kane, takes in band students from surrounding points who are not afforded the opportunity at their own schools.

Students were billeted with St. Albert students to give them a chance to experience our "Western" lifestyle. They visited the Legislature, oil refineries and other points of interest as well as taking in a concert by the Edmonton Opera Company.

St. Albert students are planning to visit Ontario in late March where they plan to see Niagara Falls.

Mrs. D. would like to apologize for the mishap on Friday about the dance. The amp was not functioning properly, so it was cancelled.

To make-up this misfortune, another dance will be held on March 2, with doors opening at 7:30, and costing 99¢ for members and $1.99 for non-members. (Except those with free passes).

If you wish to purchase a membership card, they will be on sale for $1 Friday evening.

NFU women criticize Matrimonial Property Act

In response to Bill 20, the Matrimonial Property Act, which was proclaimed law on January 1 of this year, Jo-Anne Fried, Women's Advisory Committee Member for the National Farmers Union, stated that the Bill had serious shortcomings and glaring loopholes.

"Bill 20 gives the facade of a 50-50 property split," Fried said from her farm home south of Vegreville. In reality the judge uses any fact which is relevant to the case or marriage to decide which spouse gets what portion. If the government were serious about equality they could have instituted a concept of equal sharing and all property separations could be settled out of court," she said. "The first few test cases will probably be an honest attempt at property sharing of all property acquired after the marriage. But, because the law has a built in ambiguity, eventually lawyers will work their way through the loopholes and we will have the same kind of judicial property decisions which were handed down in the nightmarish times of Irene Murdoch," Fried stated.

Delegates to the ninth annual N.F.U. Convention passed a resolution stating that matrimonial property includes all assets acquired by either spouse during the marriage except for gifts and inheritances and that each spouse has both the right and the responsibility to participate in all legal transactions regarding property decisions.

Jo-Anne Fried said that the N.F.U. policy is one of the most progressive statements on behalf of women's rights that any Canadian organization has made, and that it is a policy based on strengthening marriage, not on encouraging marriage breakdown. "What this policy essentially says is that women have property rights throughout the marriage. It means women don't have to wait until their marriages fall apart before they find out from the courts what they are worth," she said.

The N.F.U. policy is based on the assumption that marriage is an economic union to which both husbands and wives contribute equally even if their roles are different. "We feel that is a very positive position to take and one that will strengthen marriage," Fried said. "The N.F.U. recognizes that people are equal, that one marriage partner should not have dominant rights over the other and that the equality between spouses should be an active, ongoing relationship throughout marriage, rather than a calculated splitting up of the goods if a marriage breakdown occurs." The N.F.U. spokesman remarked that Bill 20 is based upon what lawyers call "bust-up" legislation which means that women's property rights are postponed until they are no longer married.

"Bill 20 is a contradiction of the goal of marriage," Fried said. "We feel that is a negative approach to marriage. Bill 20 encourages economic stress within the relationship which could lead to a greater divorce rate."

"The N.F.U. is working towards strengthening marriage and we will continue to meet with provincial governments to put our point across," the N.F.U. spokesman said.

REUSE IT!

Before you throw anything out, take another look at it. Is there some way to keep that product in use?

*Repair it. Instead of throwing it out, fix it up. Could you fix that toaster or recover that chair?

*Save it. Save those little things like ribbon, wrapping paper, string, rubber bands, shopping bags, etc. You can use them over and over again.

*Look for reusable containers. Where possible buy products that come in reusable, reusable containers. Try to find ways of reusing those jars and cans around your home.

*Buy durable products. Look beyond the price. Consider operating costs and life span. You may have to pay a little more, but you will get more value for your money.

RECYCLE IT!

Maybe you can't use all those jars, tin cans and newspapers - but somebody else can!

*Use recycling depots.

Leftover bottles, cans and paper cans be recycled by industry. This means they are melted or broken down by industry to make new products and packages. Phone "STOP Edmonton" at 432-7926 for more information about recycling programs.

*Let someone else use it. Don't throw out your old clothes, furniture and appliances when you're finished with them. Local charities and second-hand shops can spruce them up and make them available to other people.

If you're concerned about reducing garbage, it makes sense to prevent it in the first place. By rejecting, reusing and recycling we can:

*save energy
*save natural resources
*save money

*protect our environment

For more information on saving energy, you can write for "Conservation Books" at P.O. Box 3500, Station "C" - OTTAWA* Ontario K1Y 1G1. These books are published by Energy, Mines and Resources, Canada. Some of these are:

Applying for The Child Tax Credit

A little puzzled about the New Child Tax Credit and all those forms that have to be filled out in order to claim the refund? Well take heart; whereas it may appear confusing and difficult at first glance, completing the application and sending it in is really a fairly simple procedure if you follow the instructions on the forms.

You may remember that the Child Tax Credit program was announced last Fall with a refundable credit of up to $200 per child, depending on the family's income during the previous year. The idea behind it, according to the Department of National Health and Welfare, is to re-distribute income from family allowance funds and re-direct some of those funds to the people who need it most.

The Family Allowance, or Baby Bonus as it is sometimes called, was reduced this year, however, low and middle income families will end up with a larger net sum by virtue of the refundable Child Tax Credit. The new tax credit has been welcomed particularly by Canadian mothers who, with very few exceptions, will be receiving the payment even though the father may be the main income earner and is likely claiming the children as dependents on his Income Tax Return. That is basically what the Child Tax Credit is all about. Now what about all those forms?

The first step is to gather together the information and documents which you will need to properly complete the application. Note: you must have a Social Insurance Number. Even those mothers who have devoted their adult lives to raising their family and working inside the home will have to complete an income tax form with a Social Insurance Number. Those mothers who do not have a Social Insurance Number (and there appears to be quite a few) may obtain one by applying at the nearest Canada Manpower Centre or Unemployment Insurance Office. Once you have your Social Insurance Number, you are ready to begin. You will need the following items: a) TFA1 - This is the statement of Family Allowances paid during 1978 which was attached to your January cheque. There are three copies and you will need to include one copy with your Child Tax Credit application. b) Child Tax Credit application (Schedule 10) - This form was also included with the January Family Allowance cheque. If you have lost yours or have misplaced it, you may obtain another form from your nearest Taxation or Family Allowance Office. c) Income Tax Return - If you did not receive a return in the mail, you may obtain one from the Taxation Office or from any Post Office. With these materials gathered together, you are ready to begin. Relax, it's not nearly as difficult as it may appear.

First, complete the Income Tax Return; the step-by-step Tax Guide will help you. If you did not have any income in 1978, simply complete the top portion of Page 1 and enter "0" or "nil" on the Taxable Income line.

The next step is to complete the Child Tax Credit form (Schedule 10). It is important to note that you must indicate your own net income, plus the net income of your spouse, during 1978. Mothers who were separated, widowed or divorced as of Dec. 31 need only to indicate their own income.

Having done this, you're almost finished. Now all that remains is to attach the Child Tax Credit form and one copy of the TFA1 (the three-part form which was attached to the January Family Allowance cheque) to your Income Tax Return and mail them in the addressed return envelope which was enclosed with the Income Tax Return form.

For the most part it is as simple as that. In some instances there may be circumstances which complicate the completion of the application and help is as near as your telephone. If you are still having difficulties, call your nearest Family Allowance or Taxation Office and they will be happy to assist you.

Cut dental costs

Dentistry requires patients

Third and fourth year students in the University's Faculty of Dentistry have now entered on the clinical treatment portion of their professional training, and patients are required for the students. Parents of children between the ages of four and twelve are invited to contact the Faculty's Department of Dental Clinical Sciences, telephone 432-4448, and make arrangement to have their children's teeth examined. Should dental work be necessary, the students, working under supervision, can perform all aspects of treatment and recommend proper methods of care.

Dr. William Simpson, chairman of the department, says that while fees are minimal, patients will likely have to spend a substantial amount of time in the Faculty because of the detailed learning process undertaken by the students.

Apparently many young patients have been treated in past years, but the combination of fluoridation and various dental plans has reduced the number of patients who take advantage of the Faculty's expertise and facilities. Children with dental problems can receive treatment until April 30.

Switch and save . . . buying milk

By Paddi Mills [Mrs.]
Consumer Services Officer
Consumer & Corporate Affairs Canada

Everyone needs milk as part of a well rounded diet. Even seniors should be sure to have at least one serving of milk everyday. Don't be fooled into thinking that milk is just for children.

Milk comes in many forms and at varying prices. Consumers who wish to provide balanced diets for their families, might consider switching to lower cost milk products to get the best nutrition buy per dollar spent.

Here's a chart to show you how products compare:

Lowest Cost: Milk made with powdered skim milk;

Medium Cost: Store brand cheddar cheese, Cottage cheese, Evaporated milk, Processed cheese;

Expensive: Chocolate milk Sliced or grated cheese, Imported cheese, Ice cream, Yogurt.

To get the most nutrition for your dollar consider:

1. Cheeses bought in blocks; cheaper than individual servings.

2. Flavouring added to milk products increases their cost unreasonably. Avoid chocolate milk, pineapple or herbed cottage cheese. Add your own and save.

3. Generally the higher the fat content, the more expensive the product. Who needs the calories anyway? Why not buy low fat milk cheese or ice milk and save pennies and calories?

4. Store brands (e.g. Safeway Lucerne) are generally cheaper than nationally advertised brands (e.g. Kraft, Cherry Hill, etc.).

5. Buying larger quantities saves money. One litre of milk will cost more per serving than buying the 4-litre pouch packs. A word of caution. Be sure when buying quantities of any product that you have the proper storage facility. Food spoiled is money down the drain.

THANK YOU

Ella and Mel Brown wish to thank everyone for the beautiful gifts and good wishes on their 50th Wedding Anniversary and especially those who did so much work to make the occasion such a success

United Church marks 25th year

What makes a town grow?
Expanding business - new housing - good schools - recreational facilities - but most of important of all, good citizens.

Why does a church have to grow? Because a town is growing. Twenty-five years ago the United Church of St.

Albert was established by a handful of people, 10 years ago the church membership numbered about 200 families, to date that figure has more than doubled. The church community is suffering from growing pains, the buildings are bursting at the seams and it has become obvious that expanded facilities are urgently needed. All this costs money, lots of money - your money!!

fund raising and it is hoped that all adherents of the St.
Albert United Church will come out to give it their wholehearted support.

On March 23, 1979 at the St. Albert Community Hall, a 25th anniversary basket social and fund raising ball will be held. Dancing will be to the music of the Good Vibration, there will be a door prize and throughout the evening, many spot prizes. Ladies please bring a basket lunch for a midnight snack. Coffee and birthday cake will be served. Tickets are $25 a couple, $12.50 single and can be obtained from Phil Sturges 459-5054,
Skip Pickle 459-6327, Lewis Cardin 458-3057, Bob Mor-ling 459-3439.

Christian Women's Club to meet

Cake decorating is one of those things that looks to be a cinch and is anything but.

However, women in attendance at the St. Albert Christian Women's Club Thursday, March 15, will learn the secrets of this domestic art in a presentation entitled "Icings That Take The Cake." The demonstration will be given by a representative of Robinson's Pet and Hobby Supply.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is an inspirational address by Aileen Perry, a Calgary homemaker. Larry and Merline Schloybach will perform a vocal duet for the musical segment of the program.

The monthly meetings are held at the St. Albert Inn, and reservations and cancellations are essential. Tickets are $4.75 per person. If not contacted about attendance please phone Shirley Swanson, 459-8994 or Joan Culbert at 458-9745. The meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. and ends at 11 a.m. A nursery service is provided at a cost of $1.50 per family.

SINGERS GROOVY
GRANNIES NOW GROOVY
GANG

Music the international language is recorded many times in the Bible.
"And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them." Our city has so many different things to offer. One of these is the Groovy Grannies that recently changed their name when men joined it. This choir is made up of people over 60 years of age.

Mrs. Bertha Kennedy gives directions to this choir.
This lively gang sings a variety of music religious, secular and the best of popular. In war time marching soldiers marched further.

The Alberta Council on Aging has a special section called the performing arts.
Later they plan to add an orchestra and drama. One aspect of the choir is the fact they travel in other parts of Alberta and sing a lot of programs. The gang will sing in the Kiwanis Music Festival in March. As one person said after they sang in Youville Home, we get a lot of children to sing for us and now older persons like the groovy people.

Tax relief might encourage heritage preservation

Officials from five government agencies and Heritage Canada are beginning a study of ways to encourage preservation of heritage buildings and a committee has been formed to carry out the study.

Mr. Faulkner, minister responsible for Parks Canada said the need for such a program was made clear to him at a seminar on heritage building conservation which he convened last week to bring together leaders from government and the private sector in the heritage conservation field in Canada.

"We fiddle while Canada gets demolished," was the comment of one of the seminar participants, Toronto architect Jack Diamond.

4 IN MEMORIAM

Tribute to Brigitte

In his book "The Little Prince" Antoine de St. Exupery says, 'You become responsible for what you have tamed.' Those of us who knew Brigitte Chelkowski well, realize that she has 'tamed' us forever. When Brigitte was killed in a car accident on January 27, our grief clouded our minds and we thought we had lost her forever. Physically her life did end, but today she is still very real in the gifts she gave us. To each of us she gave something special, but to all of those who met her, she gave the gift of appreciating life. Her vibrancy made things not quite so ordinary, and her sense of humor took the edges off of our wariness and insecurity even when she forgot the punch line to the joke.

Friendliness was a real trait of Brigitte's. Whether she was by herself, with her friends or at work, a greeting would rebound across the school parking lot at someone she knew. All the love she had for others came from her family and her appreciation for the qualities in people.

Sincerity and generosity were just a part of life, nothing out of the ordinary because Brigitte was a searcher. To us she gave that quality of courage to face the difficulties the future might hold if it held personal growth. It was worth taking a chance to begin a new project if it meant obtaining a greater hold on living.

So, Brigitte did take her responsibility to her friends seriously. Her spirit lives on in our hearts. We still have a friend, and we owe her the compliment of living our lives fully and with joy, for the best of life is what we make of it. She loves us enough to ask that of us.

Is your crop insured?

The Alberta 'All-Risk' Crop insurance program paid out more than $21,500,000 to Alberta farmers for crop losses in 1978 says Alberta Agriculture Minister Marvin Moore.

The monies were distributed to approximately 7,500 out of 20,000 insured operators. Of the $21,500,000 paid in benefits, $13,500,000 was claimed under the basic program while the remaining $8,000,000 was paid under the program's hail endorsement section.

Mr. Moore reported that despite the unfavorable weather during the harvest season only about 125 insured farmers reported 'snowed-under' crops. In these cases claim settlements will be deferred until the farmers can complete their harvest in the spring.

The Agriculture Minister says he sees a continuing trend toward greater participation in the Alberta Crop Insurance program because of the risks involved in farming and the high cost of maintaining a farm operation. He urged farmers who are not already crop insurance policyholders to seriously consider the advantages of crop insurance as a means of covering a major part of their production risks. Mr. Moore added that through participation of the Provincial and Federal Governments this coverage is actually offered to farmers at less than one-half the true cost of the insurance.

The agriculture minister reiterated his advice to all farmers that they give careful consideration to the various insurance options offered by the Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation, and that they participate in the corporation's program during 1979 in order to protect their operations from adverse growing or harvesting conditions.

Two die in collision

Two people died and three others were taken to hospital as a result of a three vehicle accident last Wednesday one kilometer south of the fertilizer plant near Redwater.

The mishap occurred just after 9 a.m., involving two cars and a semi-trailer unit.

Dead is Faith Shewchuk, 18 years of age and of the Redwater area, and 19 year old Barry Tremblay of R.R. 2 Fort Saskatchewan.

Three others in the accident were taken to hospital in Fort Saskatchewan, one of them in critical condition at the time. One of the injured was released the next day.

Redwater RCMP are still investigating the matter.

Political forum - don't miss it

The Morinville Board of Trade has set up a political forum so you can meet the candidates running in the forthcoming provincial election. The forum will take place March 6 at the Rec. Hall in Morinville, starting at 8 p.m. Each candidate will be allowed 10 minutes for an introductory speech, which will be followed by a question period, and ending with time for rebuttals. Coffee and donuts will be served.

GET INFORMED GET INVOLVED

By Bob Coles

I believe that it is every citizen's duty to get involved and informed at election time. Sure, it's easy for me, after all, part of my job is to cover the election, the platforms and the issues. But remember, the right to vote is the foundation of our democratic society.

Not only is it important to vote, it is even more important to vote intelligently. There are four candidates vying to represent this constituency in the Legislative Assembly, and it is important that we make an intelligent choice, whether we like the selection or not. Our constituency is the largest in this province and our voice should be heard loud and clear.

Here's an opportunity for you to get both involved and informed! This Thursday, from 8:30 to 10 a.m. the Gazette phone lines will be open for our readers to call in and tell us what they would like to ask of the candidates. Then Thursday afternoon and on Friday we will be interviewing each candidate using many of our readers' queries, as well as a few we have up our sleeves. The result of the interviews will be printed in the March 7th issue of the Gazette.

If you would rather get involved and informed in a more direct manner, you should attend the Election Forum in Morinville this coming Tuesday evening in the Rec. Centre. All four candidates are scheduled to attend the session, to be hosted by the Morinville Board of Trade. Douglas Bruce Hunter of Cable 5 TV in St. Albert offers people with cable the same opportunity on March 7 at 6 p.m. He has set up a phone-in program with all four candidates present. On March 8, another phone-in show will ask the question, "To what issue should our next MLA give first priority?" Our City Editor Vicky Knight will co-host the program with Ian Williams of the Journal.

"The man who says he is no politician, is either ignorant of what he is saying, or a contemptible selfish creature, unworthy of the country or community of which he is a part."
William Lyon MacKenzie, June 27, 1833.

Minister announces home assistance

Tom Chambers, minister of Housing and Public Works, was pleased to announce significant modifications which have been made to the Farm Home Lending Program, a Mortgage loan program designed to assist farmers in obtaining new farm living accommodation or to upgrade existing farm homes.

Effective immediately the Alberta Home Mortgage Corporation would increase the maximum annual subsidy to $1,716/year or $143/month, an increase from the previous maximum monthly assistance of $112/month. In addition the maximum house price would be raised to $52,000 for both new and existing housing units. The maximum mortgage available was also raised to $40,000 from $35,000 for new homes and to $40,000 from $30,000 for existing homes.

Eligible applicants include bona fide farmers who may be individuals, corporations, partnerships or co-operatives where the main source of income is derived from the operation of a farm(s). The Alberta Home Mortgage Corporation conventional lending rate is currently 10% percent and with the monthly subsidy will be reduced to as low as 5 7/8 percent. For example, a farmer with an annual income of $9,500 could obtain a mortgage of $40,000 and would only have to make payments of $213/month. The remainder, or $143/month, would be covered by the corporation. Mr. Chambers noted that the Farm Home Lending program has a limited amount of funding but there was always a need for such financing particularly for young Alberta farmers. The changes to the program would increase the affordability of housing from rural Albertan families and it was quite likely the program take-up would also be enhanced. The minister pro-

Friends and family gather for Browns' golden wedding anniversary

The cold of a February day was soon dispelled as old friends and neighbors gathered in the Riviere Qui Barre school auditorium on Saturday, February 24, 1979, to celebrate with Mel and Ella Brown on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The Browns' were married by the Reverend Caldwell in Erskine United Church, Edmonton, on February 26, 1929.

Warmth and laughter and the sounds of many conversations and greetings filled the hall as more and more people arrived, about 175 in all. They came from both the Qui Barre district and the Patricia-Horse Hills area, where the Browns had lived in their younger days.

Allan McDonell, a close neighbor of the Browns acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the bride of 50 years as "a grand lady" and Mel ... "well he's just one of us," which drew a hearty clap from Mr. Brown. "The Browns have had their ups and downs, their hardships and pleasures," said the M.C. - "and they survived and made a great many friends along the way."

The Brown family with five children came west from Bruce County, Ontario in 1912, settling first in the Sedgewick area and moving after four years to the Patricia district, northeast of Edmonton. Mel took his high school and Normal training in Edmonton and then taught in McLennan, Wainwright, Battle Creek and Belmont before deciding to go into farming in the Riviere Qui Barre district.

Ella's father left Scotland in 1888 and Ben Grant worked in various parts of Western Canada until he was in a position to take out a homestead in the Patricia district, and it was there that Ella was born in 1898.

Mel was noted in his youth for his abilities as a runner and in high jump competitions, and he also played football and basketball, said Mr. McDonell, while Ella was always a fine student and received a Gold Medal award for her high standing in Grade 12. "I could say more," said the M.C., "but it was suggested to me by an old friend of his that Mel will get the last word anyway!"

The original bridesmaid, Jessie Baker from Evansburg was introduced and Dave Jones, a longtime friend from Leduc, who stood in for the best man of 50 years ago, Roy Paton. Also recognized were Ella's sister Anna, married to Mel's brother Allan Brown, and another brother, Nelson Brown of Vimy and his wife Clara. The six grandchildren in attendance were asked to stand: Stephen and Kathleen, children of the Brown's daughter Leslie Robertson from Kelowna, and their son Doug's family, Malcolm and his wife Adele, Mary and her husband Grant, and Violet. The other two grandchildren did not make the trip from Kelowna. Mr. McDonell also mentioned Mel's only living sister, Mrs. Stan Boucher, who is in Hawaii.

The Browns' have been consistently solid supporters of the United Church and joining them for their Golden Wedding were Dr. Jim Nicholas and his wife Florence from Barrhead (Rev. Nicholas had formerly been the minister at Busby-Independence) and the Rev. Don Brown from Morinville United Church. Father Walter Fitzgerald and Father Angus McRae, longtime neighbors and friends were also present.

Cathy Fisher and Joanne Dewald, nieces, presented the couple with gifts of flowers on behalf of the Riviere Qui Barre community and the Anna Brown family, and Muriel Nakamura presented flowers from the United Church in Morinville.

A GREAT OCCASION

"This is a great occasion" said nephew Earl Brown, 50 years together in Canada. And for Mel after 50 years it is great that there are still this many willing to come out and to talk to him. With Uncle Mel you have a verbal battle anytime you run into him, but this time I can say anything I want now and he will not be able to rebut me."

He said it was a memorable year for Aunt Ella, who also marked her 80th birthday. Ella was only three weeks old when tragedy struck the Grant family, he went on, and her mother died, leaving her dad with two wee girls. A dear Aunt came out from Scotland to look after the girls, and a fine job she did. He spoke of Ella's first teaching job at Rocky Mountain House - a wilderness, where she was paid $700 a year and out of that paid $8 per month for room and board. After Normal training she returned to that district and later taught for seven years at Patricia. "One so petite could not have maintained discipline except through the respect of her students, said Earl.

Life was not a bed of roses for Uncle Mel either, he said. He fell seriously ill at two years and the doctor had to come 14 miles on snowshoes. He was not expected to live, but even at two years said Earl, he had developed such an ornery streak ... He told how his uncle while living north of Edmonton had to drive a horse in, and then catch a street car to school. After a lengthy courtship the Browns' were married and went to the Elwood farm, and later to their present location one and one half miles south.

FORMER STUDENT PAYS TRIBUTE

Jim Bentley said it was a privilege to participate in this 50th wedding celebration and recall old happenings through the years of "our association with the Browns and Grants." "As a resident of the Horse Hills community for over 70 years," Mr. Bentley said, "Ben Grant and his sister did a big job raising Ella and Anna and that Ben Grant was one of the finest gentlemen it has ever been my privilege to know."

A pupil of Ella, Mr. Bentley remarked on all the fine school facilities we have today - you name it, we have it. But he recalled not having even a bat and ball sometimes for sports on the playground. Nowadays it is difficult to get teachers to supervise but Ella was out with us everyday, regardless of weather, for games such as Prisoner's Base and Pump Pump Pull Away - we had a marvellous time. I was not a good student, but she was a good teacher and I got through to my surprise and perhaps even to Ella's. As farmers we paid the School District $15 a year per quarter of land for school taxes - there was very little for a local school board and no government assistance whatsoever. "I pay tribute to these people who contributed so much to education advance in those days. Mr. Bentley has served as president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and another pupil of Ella's became editor of the Family Herald. He spoke of the Brown family also as a credit to their community, saying that George Brown was one of the finest horsemen he ever knew and the family always contributed greatly to the social and church life of the community. He wished these "friendly, co-operative people who have led a long happy and productive life many years of health and happiness."

GIFTS AND GREETINGS

Mr. McDonell, on behalf of both the Patricia and Riviere Qui-Barre people present presented the Browns with a beautiful engraved tray, complete with gold-lined cream and sugar. "Gold for those who remain really true," said Allan. The Riviere Qui Barre community presented a lovely wooden scroll with inscribed plate honoring the couple.

The Browns received greetings from Prime Minister Trudeau, Opposition Leader Clark, Governor General Ed Schierer, Lieutenant Governor Ralph Steinhauer, Premier Lougheed, M.P. Marcel Lambert and MLA Ernie Jamison, with Mr. McDonell and Mr. Jamison making the presentations.

Old friends from Namao, Mabel Clark and Eva Dowling, 80 and 81, offered tributes and anecdotes about Ella and her sister, and Allan McDonell spoke of Mr. Brown's bounteous, beautifully-kept garden.

Dr. Nicholas offered his congratulations, noting that the Browns' had attended their 50th wedding last year in Barrhead. "The feeling in this hall today is wonderful," he said.

MEL GETS HIS TURN

Mr. Brown said he was no speaker but he got a few licks in - how Allan's mother used to say "he's always talking," and as for Jim - "I never heard him say a 'few' words yet." In more serious vein Mel said he has lived in many neighborhoods in Alberta, and in one of the finest now. Canada is not a nation of provinces, but of neighborhoods, he said, "and I hope to heaven no Task Force is established to show us how different we are, and then another to bring us together."

A neighborhood, he said is a picture of yourself. If you get along well with your neighbors, then you will have a good neighborhood.

If I had to go back 50 years, he went on - I would look at Ella, and I would say she looks to be like she deserves the best could get - so I would make myself available.

More seriously he said he feels the family is basis of every kind of life and foundations for living are laid in the home, or should be. Ups and downs balance out, and the good things outweigh the others in a long marriage. He thanked everyone for the wonderful day, saying it was hard to find words, and concluding with some lines from an old poem: "Let me live in my house by the side of the road, and be a friend to man." Which seemed to sum up the example of the Brown and Grant families.

Luncheon and much happy visiting concluded the festivities.

Scout and Guide week in Morinville

Scout and Guide Week, an international event, began Sunday, February 18 in Morinville with a parade and church service at St. John the Baptist Church. Scout Commissioner Dave Yaeck addressed opening remarks and under the able leadership of Mrs. J. MacPherson, the congregation sang and prayed in the spirit of friendship and sharing indicative of the day. Dan Robinson was organist for the service. Messages were delivered by Fr. Croteau, pastor and Mr. Don Brown, minister of the United Church impressing upon us all the presence of God in all our scouting endeavours.

Highlight of the service was the presentation of religion in life emblems by Fr. Croteau and Mr. Brown to: Shawna MacPherson, Patricia Dingman, Lean Scott Nicole Beloin, Shannon Donnelly, Teresa McGinnis, Julie Lester, Tracey Leslie, Kelly Butler, Kathy MacDonald, Sherry Wright, Tracey Miller, Lisa Balsillie, Michelle Miller and Rachael Lindy, Laurie Pifko, Melanie Garrioch, Scott Leslie, David Underwood, Scott Warnke, Randy Boissonnault, Scott McPherson and Byron MacDonald. Congratulations!

Following the service a bonfire, hot chocolate and doughnuts at Heritage Park were enjoyed, along with the meeting of old and new friends. Our thanks to all who attended the events on Sunday and to those who worked so hard to make the day a reality.

Air Cadets on Parade

On Tuesday, February 20 the squadron held a mess dinner in the Gibbons school auditorium, W02 F. Hutchings, president of the mess, had everyone stand as the head table guests entered and took their places, led by the vice-president of the mess, Cpl. Sandra Kennedy. After grace, by Fl. Sgt. D. Russell, the cadets, parents and guests partook of the delicious meal catered by the ladies of the Bon Accord ACW who did their usual superb job and won the hearts of cadets with servings of three or more desserts!

Cpl. S. Kennedy proposed the Toast to the Queen and afterwards was called upon to introduce the head table guests. They were: O.Cdt. R. Barraclough, Lt. C. Fletcher, liaison officer Capt. K. McLennan, CO Capt. J. McHardy, sponsoring committee chairman Mrs. E. Hutchings, provincial league zone chairman Mr. Harold Webber, Mrs. Webber, Capt. T. Fletcher and Lt. E. Mortimer.

After the introductions, Capt. McHardy announced the promotions and presented certificates of award. Cadet Reilly received his long awaited "prop" after his transfer here from Calgary last year. Promoted to acting corporal were LAC's Brian Wall and Mike White.

Promoted from acting corporal to corporal were R. Samis, D. Melville, P. McCormack, V. Graca and S. Kennedy. Perfect attendance pins for last year have finally arrived and can be picked up at the office. Wood, Cpl. P. McCormack, Cpl. A. Saunders, Sgt. J. McColeman, F.Sgt. M. Graca, Sgt.

D. Milligan and also to assistant training officer Lt. Cathy Fletcher.

Qualification certificates were given to Sgt. C. Wood and Sgt. D. Milligan for completing the junior leaders course, and to Cpl. A. Saunders for the cadet leader course, he took at Vernon, B.C.

On behalf of the cadets F.Sgt. Trent McHardy spoke next, stressing the benefits to be received through the air cadet movement, and particularly the things to be experienced at the summer camps and scholarship courses offered to interested cadets who qualify for them.

Supply Officer Capt. T. Fletcher gave a few announcements re - tickets and uniforms. It seems we have ties but no shirts! However these will be ordered as soon as all cadets have put in their sizes.

This concluded the evening and the audience rose as the guests at the head table departed. Congratulations to all those who received promotions and certificates of award.

The squadron will be holding its annual Bean Supper on Sunday, March 4 upstairs in the Bon Accord Arena. Prices remain the same as last year, adults $2., children aged 6 - 12, $1. and under six - free. Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy the good food provided by the mothers of the cadets. Unifarm women receive grant Marvin E. Moore, minister of agriculture, recently announced a grant in the amount of $7,400 for the Women of Unifarm.

These funds will assist the Women of Unifarm in carrying out a series of workshops during 1979, on "Farm Accidents and Stress." Various workshops will be held on:

- (a) Level of tolerance of stress for individuals
- (b) How does an individual recognize his stress level.
- (c) How do we manage or cope with stress.
- (d) Recognizing stress and symptoms.

(e) How are farm accidents related to stress.

The Women of Unifarm have been very active in presenting workshops and educational programs for rural Albertans. Mr. Moore indicates the response that he has received from rural Albertans regarding these programs has been very positive and he would like to commend the Women of Unifarm for the many contributions they have made to rural Albertans.

Cardiff pioneer dies in hospital

Funeral services were conducted for Charles Anton (Carl) Kieser who passed away in Sturgeon General Hospital, St. Albert at the age of 83 years.

Mr. Kieser was born in Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, on April 23, 1895. He arrived in this district in June of the same year, having travelled with his parents by covered wagon and train. The party continued by wagon from Strathcona where they crossed the North Saskatchewan by ferry and drove north, settling near Cardiff. It was here Carl grew up and attended school at Rose Ridge.

In 1918 he was called into the army and served in the Canadian Forestry Corps in England and Scotland. He received his honorable discharge on May 10, 1919.

He was married in Dorchester, Wisconsin in 1920 to Miss Elizabeth Steinfort. He farmed south of Morinville retiring in 1966 to live in Morinville.

He seldom joined in community activities but his deep interest in the plight of the returned soldier prompted him in 1946 to join his fellowmen in forming the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. Morinville 176 Branch in which he served as vice president for some time.

He is survived by his loving wife Elizabeth, three daughters Mrs. Romain (Clara) Van Brabant, St. Albert; Mrs. Herbert (Betty) Seel, Invermere, B.C.; Mrs. Herman (Marian) Schafers, Villeneuve. One daughter Barbara Pelletier predeceased him in 1957. He also leaves 22 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters; John Kieser, Edmonton; Herman Kieser, Cardiff; Mrs. Bertha Krauskopf, Morinville and Miss Theresa Kieser, Morinville.

Prayers were held Tuesday evening, and Mass of Christian Burial Wednesday at 10 a.m., both at St. Jean Baptiste Church in Morinville. Rev. Fr. R. Simard officiated. Organist was Sr. Majeau.

Pallbearers were six grandsons, Hector and Anthony Van Brabant, Charles and Gordon Pelletier, and Shane and Donald Schafers.

Interment was in Morinville Church Cemetery.

The bridge players were missing one of their regulars as Mr. Glen Samis is a patient in the Sturgeon General Hospital in St. Albert. He was bitten by the flu bug, which caused him and Peter to postpone their trip to Hawaii.

After a short business session, chaired by the President, Mrs. Harold Clapp, who was just back from a trip to Winnipeg, the speaker of the afternoon was introduced. Mrs. Muriel Porter and Mrs. Gladys McLay served lunch, and wash-up time in the kitchen was most enjoyable as we heard all about our returned travellers.

Gibbons Library News

By Lorraine Brooks

Parenting is one thing that all of us with children want to do especially well. 1979 is the International Year of the Child, and a most appropriate time to try to improve our parenting skills. The Gibbons Public Library has some excellent books to help.

Ham Ginnot's well-known "Between Parent and Child" is one you might wish to read. Paul Ackerman has written one to help span the often frustrating communications gap. "Signals: What Your Child Is Trying To Tell You." The author aims at assisting parents in recognizing and interpreting the non-verbal messages our children give us.

Another book which has only recently been added to our collection in the Gibbons

These are only three of the many books which are available. If the one you wish to read is not in the collection at the Gibbons Library, you can probably borrow it on an inter-library loan from the Edmonton Public Library. Ask the librarian on duty about this service.

SPORTS

Marty O'Kell
On Sports

So...Edmonton has a third pro sport franchise. You have probably heard by now...Peter Pocklington, owner of the Edmonton Oilers, now is the owner of a pro soccer club, playing in the North American Soccer League.

Peter Puck, as he is known to many area hockey fans, bought the failing Oakland Stompers, and took Edmonton's Mayor Cec Purves with him to Dallas to persuade the other members of the NASL to let him move the team to Edmonton.

That he (they) did. It should be very interesting to see how the Edmonton club will do at the box office.

If you recall, three Edmonton businessmen, Val Brown, Joe Petrone and Brian Rice, formed the Black Gold pro club for a group of exhibition games last summer. Attendance at the contests ranged from about 800 in the rain to around ten thousand on one nice day. The average attendance from the seven or so games they played was about 2,000, if memory serves me correctly.

If the club is marketed properly, there should be no reason why the average attendance should be below the 8,000 mark. After all, there are a lot of youngsters playing the game in the metro Edmonton area. In St. Albert alone, there are almost a thousand kids playing the game. In Edmonton, there are several thousand more.

So, theoretically, it wouldn't be too hard to get several thousand people to the soccer matches. And don't forget the ethnic group of the big city to the south of us. If they forget about their beloved teams from the "old countries," and pay some attention to what's here, things might go well for Peter Soccerball. (doesn't sound right, does it?)

I hope the parents of soccer-playing kids take their off spring to these games. After all, soccer is the biggest summer team sport in Canada now.

I guess we'll just have to keep our fingers crossed. If San Diego's franchise can keep on going with attendance figures of five thousand a game, even while they were in top spot in their division, then Edmonton should be able to support a pro soccer club.

There's only one thing that bothers me. The conference that the so far un-named team will play in, includes teams from California, the American mid-west and the American east coast.

The Edmonton franchise WON'T be playing any games against the Vancouver Whitecaps or the Toronto Blizzard. So there won't be a "natural" rivalry with our friends down on the Canadian west coast.

Maybe Peter Soccerball should buy an airline while he has his wallet out. It might be cheaper on the transportation costs.

Just a reminder to all the hockey players in St. Albert selling raffle tickets for the Air Canada/C.P. Air trips. GET YOUR MONEY IN SOON!

Oh...speaking of hockey, what about those Oilers. If you are one of those people who think that the WHA can't provide hockey like the NHL, think again. The Oilers and the WHA are providing an excellent brand of pro hockey. It may not be the Canadiens vs Islanders, but it's a heck of a lot better than the Canucks flopping around the ice with the St. Louis Blues. Try an Oiler game, you'll be pleasantly surprised. The Oilers deserve some support, they deserve full houses every game. That will keep them going...to the top.

Rookies lead Saints to victory

By Larry Mitchell

A pair of first year youngsters, Troy Murray and Pat Poulin, both from the Kinsmen Minor Hockey system played big roles in the Saints last two wins to keep them in the race for second spot in the seven-team Alberta Junior "A" Hockey League race.

Thursday night in Red Deer, Murray came up with his biggest game in junior hockey as he scored four times (two didn't count) in the Saints come-from-behind 6-5 overtime win.

Saturday night Poulin scored a pair of goals to lead the Saints to a 6-4 win over Red Deer for the Saints sixth straight win.

The pair of wins gives St. Albert 75 points in the A.J.H.L., only four behind second place Fort Saskatchewan Traders and nine back of league leading Calgary Canucks.

Saints have a pair of games in hand over the Traders and both are with the last place Sherwood Park Crusaders, who won both their weekend games as they hammered the Canucks 9-6 Sunday and won on a disqualification Saturday over the Calgary Chinooks. Chinooks apparently used an ineligible goaltender in their 4-4 tie with the Crusaders but the two points were awarded to the Crusaders by league president Ron Leopold following a meeting.

Traders only have two games remaining in their 60-game schedule and both are against the Saints in a home and away series this Saturday and Sunday.

Saints are at home tonight against the Crusaders for an 8 p.m. game and Thursday will be back in Sherwood Park for the final game of the season between the two clubs. Saints are expected to win both games having lost the first two games of the season to the Crusaders and then winning the last nine in a row.

Calgary Canucks have wrapped up first place and will play the Red Deer Rustlers in one of the three best of seven series in the opening round of playoffs. Calgary Chinooks will finish in fifth place and will play whoever finishes in second spot while the fourth place Taber Golden Suns will meet the third place finisher.

Determination plus

By Larry Mitchell

One of the St. Albert Junior Saints most pleasant surprises of the Alberta Junior Hockey League season has been the all-around play of first year man Troy Murray who is all of 16 years of age.

Coach Doug Messier has been most happy with the youngster's performance, which has seen the centre iceman play in all 56 games, score 31 goals and 36 assists, good enough for second place on team scoring behind leader Ken Solheim.

Murray has impressed all league management personnel with his clean style of play, although some opposing players might not agree after feeling the effects of his checking, and should be among the top two or three players when the balloting for the rookie of the year and most valuable player awards are tallied up.

TROY MURRAY

A prime example of his talents was clearly displayed in Red Deer last Thursday in the Saints 6-5 overtime win after being down 5-0 midway through the second period.

Murray broke a skate blade early in the game and had to borrow a pair from Pat Please Turn to Page B 12

Big Bantam tourney in April

Four days of the best bantam hockey in Western Canada is in the wind for St. Albert in early April.

St. Albert Kinsmen Minor Hockey Association -- representative division president Bob Couture revealed last week his association will sponsor St. Albert's First Annual Bantam Hockey Tournament April 4 to 7, with teams invited from British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Kamloops has already announced it will send its all-star team. Mr. Couture said at a news conference, "and we're 95 percent certain the Saskatoon North Stars -- a perennial championship team -- will be here."

St. Albert's Territorial Leasing Sabres will represent this city and will serve as tournament host, while other teams invited include Prince George, Lethbridge, Fort Saskatchewan, Sherwood Park, Camrose, Swift Current and two Edmonton Maple Leaf Athletic Club representatives, including league leading Boston Pilz-zas.

It's St. Albert's first venture into a invitational tournament at the representative level, representative division vice-chairman Al Laplante said, and plans are for it to be an annual competition each spring involving the best 13 and 14 year old bantam aged hockey players in western Canada.

Most games will be played at the Akinsdale Arena with all teams being guaranteed at least three games. If St. Albert's junior Saints are not involved in hockey playoffs at that time all games will be in the city's new arena.

John Sebastian, St. Albert coach, said teams must lose two games before being knocked out of further competition. The first game played for each team will decide whether they play on the "A" or "B" side.

"As well as getting St. Albert on the hockey map outside of this province, we're trying to return the hospitality and friendship many of these invited teams have shown to our teams in past seasons," Mr. Laplante said.

"Many St. Albert teams have visited these centres in past years and our players have been shown a great time. We know we'll have the best hockey available anywhere for the fans to watch, but we're also stressing sportsmanship and hospitality," Mr. Laplante said.

At present the Sabres are trying to line up billets for visiting teams and coaches and any citizen that can open up their home for a night or two is asked to call Mr. Sebastian at 458-4633.

Volunteers are also needed to serve on a variety of committees, assist with transportation, scorekeeping, announcers, etc., and again interested individuals can contact Mr. Sebastian or Mr. Laplante at 459-8501.

A complete list of all participating teams is expected to be announced within a short time.

have won five games each with one ending in a tie. Traders have outscored the Saints 52 goals to 46 and could possibly win the second place spot on goals for and against should the two teams split the final two games.

Thursday night's game in Red Deer produced a total of 14 goals but only 11 counted in the league record book with the other three being disallowed due to use of illegal sticks by both teams.

Red Deer appeared to have the game won midway through the second period as they led 5-0 on goals by Ron Pastor, Craig Bently, Glen Johannesen, Doug Volk and Gord Ing. The first three goals came in the first period with Pierre Lamoureux in the Saints goal while the other two were against Brian Ford.

Saints got on the scoreboard on a shot from the point by Steve McKenzie at 16:21 with Troy Murray drawing an assist.

Timba Siyo scored a short-handed goal at 3:10 of the final period with team-mate Claude Bara sitting out a tripping penalty.

Defenseman John White made it 5-3 at 4:42 and then at 6:28 McKenzie scored his second of the night on a powerplay to bring the Saints to within one goal of the Rustlers.

Doug Balog of the Rustlers went off for tripping at 12:38 and with only 21 seconds gone in his penalty Troy Murray finished off a fine passing play with Brian Shaw and McKenzie picking up assists on the tying goal.

Murray then scored what appeared to be the winning goal at 19:03 but Rustler coach Al Dunkle called for a measurement of Murray's stick by referee Ian Sandercock, who found the curvature exceeded the half inch allowance.

The goal was disallowed by Sandercock.

The game then went into a 10 minute sudden death overtime period while at the same time Murray was required to sit out a two-minute minor for playing with an illegal stick.

At 4:16 of the overtime Craig Bently scored for the Rustlers but his stick was then called by Saints coach Messier and Sandercock, in measuring, found it also to exceed the half inch curve and disallowed the goal which then resulted in a penalty to Bently.

Sandercock, a Western

Canada Hockey League (Tier 11) official, insisted on using a machine made stick measuring device which is not used in the A.J.H.L. The Tier 11 league uses a skate lace and dime method to measure the curve and when Sandercock would not agree to the A.J.H.L. rules, both coaches agreed to allow the next goal regardless of which team scored, as both teams had and were using illegal sticks according to Sandercock's gauge.

While Bently was sitting out his illegal stick minor penalty Murray scored what once again appeared to be the winning goal, but Red Deer coach Dunkle changed his mind and again called for a measurement of Murray's stick. It failed to pass Sandercock's method of measuring and the goal was disallowed.

Murray was given a two minute penalty and was so mad and frustrated that within 24 seconds of serving his minor picked up a pass from Brian Shaw and skated the length of the ice, and once again deposited the puck past Rustler goaltender Trevor Gaalaas for his fourth goal of the night.

Murray immediately surrendered his stick to referee Sandercock and the goal was finally allowed and the Saints won in overtime 6-5.

Murray also ran into other problems during the game when he broke a skate blade and had to play the final two periods on a pair owned by Pat Poulin which were two sizes too large. Most players would have thrown in the towel at that point, but the strong determination of Murray carried him over that as well as the disallowed two goals and he played the best game of his career.

If this youngster does not make pro hockey in the next couple of years, then someone should take a saliva test, as there is "super star" written all over him.

Murray should win the "Rookie of the Year" honors with ease as he is not only a proficient goal scorer (31), but he also is one of the best penalty killers in the league. A good many opposing players will also tell you that his clean style of body checking also is tops.

Saturday night in St. Albert the Saints, behind the two-goal performance of Pat Poulin defeated the Rustlers 6-4 and stretched their winning streak to six straight. Mark Magnan, Timba Sivo, Mickey Volcan and Ken Solheim's 44th of the season rounded out the scoring.

Baseball meeting

The St. Albert Minor Baseball Association will be holding an organizational meeting for the upcoming season on Thursday, March 1st, 8 p.m. at the Mission Clubhouse.

Preliminary plans for the 1979 season will be set and all those interested in assisting are requested to attend. This includes coaches, assistant coaches, officials and all those who would like to contribute to a successful season.

SAMBA has grown considerably over the years and is once again expecting an increased registration in 1979. A successful program can only be run if it has the full support of the parents.

Paul Kane to host Northern Basketball playoffs

On the weekend of March 2 and 3, Paul Kane High will be hosting the Northern Alberta "4A" Zone Basketball Finals. Paul Kane boys and girls teams and their cheerleaders will be St. Albert's representative at this tournament.

The top boys team and the top two girls teams from this competition will qualify for the provincial playoffs later in March.

Teams in the finals are from Red Deer, Salisbury Comp in Sherwood Park, Fort McMurray and Grande Prairie.

Ice racing at Big Lake

The Northern Alberta Sports Car Club held its fourth race of the season over the weekend at Big Lake. The club has two more races in its ice racing schedule, March 11 and March 15.

Three classes raced on Sunday. Unlimited Stud class, Limited Stud class and Rubber to Ice.

Only four cars raced in the Unlimited class, with Barry Munson taking the checkered flag. Tony Fisher placed second, Ken Staples finished third and Carlo Marrazzo placed fourth.

In the Limited class, Cameron Mills came in ahead of the pack, with second place going to Gordon Guest and third to Hans Raab.

The Rubber to Ice class saw Keith Walton place in the winners circle, with Paul Dick in second and Carlo Marrazzo third.

In the points standings for the three classes, Munson leads in the Unlimited class, with Fisher in second spot and Carl Hansen in third. In the Limited class, Cameron Mills is in the lead, with second spot held by Raab and third by Colin Schultz.

The Rubber to Ice class has Marrazzo in first, Walton and Dick tied for second and Norris Fadden in third.

Some exciting racing on ice can be seen at these races, so it would be a good idea to take in one of the remaining two races on the schedule.

Raiders set for final drive

St. Albert's midget A representative team, the Integrated Building Raiders, are preparing themselves for one last drive in the '78-'79 hockey season. The team finished in fourth spot in the four team league, gaining only one point in 30 games. Fort Saskatchewan, Red Deer and Sherwood Park are the other teams in the league.

The Raiders begin playoffs this weekend, opening up Saturday at Red Deer. The series is a best of three playoff, with the second game back in St. Albert some time the following week. The team is also entering their provincial playoffs, this weekend against the Leduc midgets. Game time Sunday in Leduc is 7:15 p.m. The return match, in a two-game total point series, will be back in St. Albert the following day in Petron Arena at 7 p.m. The winner of this series competes in the Provincial 'A' tournament at Fort Saskatchewan, March 16-17-18.

LOSE A FINAL IN DRUMHELLER

The Raiders recently competed in the Drumheller midget tournament, losing the "A" side final 5-4 to Stettler. St. Albert defeated Taber 9-4 and Wetaskiwin 5-2, to advance to the championship game. Darrell Turnbull had a good weekend, being named most valuable player in each of the three games played. His linemates, Greg Miller and Brad Hammett had productive weekends as well. Cam Sebastian and Paul Kelly, both coming off of knee injuries, also had a good series.

The season, to date, has been very dismal for the Raiders as they never really got on track from the very beginning. There has been numerous personnel changes, leaving the team short staffed in many of the games. Players from the Territorial Leasing Bantam A's and the CKSI Midget B's have been doing excellent jobs taking up the slack. Injuries have hampered consistency with key players like Kelly, Sebastian and defenseman Scott Holliday receiving injuries during the second half of the season. Other members of the team are Ben Chabot, Rick Gray, Brent Weller, Don White, John Hesse, John Phillips, Dean McKinney, Ken Neustead, Brad Hammett, Greg Miller and Team Captain Darrell Turnbull.

Now that the team is nearly back to full strength, the players are determined to make one last drive in hopes of regaining some of their lost pride. The players also hope that parents and fans will support them during their upcoming games.

Soccer

the corner

The Hercules Sports Association will be holding its soccer registrations next month, and parents and kids are urged to try and register during the two registration periods, March 15 and 22 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Wild Rose School in the lunchroom.

Hercules is imposing a five dollar penalty for late registrants, as they don't want to go through the problem of registrations trickling in throughout the summer. The late registering date hasn't been set yet.

There will also be a limit of kids accepted, due to lack of parental support and available fields. Early registration therefore is a MUST.

Hercules plans to have two divisions in each age group, except for the midget and novice categories. These two categories will be combined if there is enough interest to support a four team league. Boys in this age group can sign up, if interested, at the offices of the two St. Albert high schools.

Any parent interested in helping out with the soccer program in any way can phone 158-0653.

And don't be late for registration, you might not get another chance till next year.

WWWVHHHHUUUUUUMMMMMMP!

Christie Vernon of Edmonton had a little trouble negotiating the turn during her race heat on Big Lake, Sunday. Christie the only female racer in the Northern Alberta Sports Car Club will be back at it again March 11. Admission is free and could provide great family fun. Just follow Lake Road east from St. Albert and watch for the sign on the side of the road (about six miles).

It was a very successful meet for the O.S.C. Jennifer MacDonald of Edmonton won nine events in the 11 and 12 year age group. Scott Tandy (Edmonton) won four events in the 11 and 12 boys group. Cynthia Zutter and Barb Jickling, (Edmonton) won four events each in the 13 and 14 year girls group.

Brian Strudder of St. Albert won four events in the 50, 200, 400 and 1500 m freestyle events, (senior boys, 15 years and up), coming in third place stand-ding.

Derek Lux of St. Albert in the 11 and 12 year boys age group placed third in the 100

Minor baseball registration dates set

The St. Albert Minor Baseball Association has commenced registration for the 1979 baseball season.

Registration forms can be picked up at most schools in St. Albert, the two St. Albert sport stores and at the Community Services office.

Completed forms with the registration fee can be turned in at the sport stores, or at the Community Services office. Final registration date is set for Saturday, March 10 and all ball players are urged to register early. A heavy registration is anticipated and the league needs sufficient time to organize a successful season.

The St. Albert Minor Baseball Association operates leagues for ball players from six years to 16 years old in T-Ball, Mosquito, Beaver, Bantam and Midget Division. It is hoped that this can be extended to include a Bison Division in 1979.

Shaver A Dairy Queen

play four exhibition games

On February 14 the Shaver A Crusaders were invited out to Fort Saskatchewan for an exhibition game. Both teams started out slowly as close checking and hard hitting persisted throughout. The final score was 2-0 for St. Albert. Scoring for the Dairy Queen were Trevor Robertson from Wesley Webber; and Webber assisted by Robertson. Jamie "Shaky" McInnery earned the shut out.

February 17 in Legal the Crusaders took on the number one team from Sherwood Park. This was a very exciting fast-skating game in which the "Billy's Guide" defeated St. Albert 5-2. Replying for the Crusaders were Webber from Kevin Gullekson and Peter Johns and Webber unassisted.

The third exhibition game was again played in Legal as Thorncliff from Edmonton was the opposition. St.

Albert was outthrust in this one and lost 4-2. Scoring both goals for St. Albert was Wes Webber. Shane "Tank" Fildes and Kevin Gullekson picked up assists.

The next day, February 25, saw both the Dairy Queen and Edmonton's Killarney play a fast-skating hard-hitting game as the contest ended in a two all tie. Scoring for the Crusaders were Albert Laplante assisted by Damien Moroney and Cameron Nuttall; and Trevor Robertson from Wes Webber and Damien Moroney. A special thank you to Mr. Fildes and Mr. Failing for refereeing and Murray Robertson for timekeeping.

Final league action in Shaver A is March 4 when the Cougars and Tankers tangle at 6 a.m., followed by the Lions playing the Crusaders. Both games are at Akinsdale Arena.

aquatic activities. That fact, though, has not deterred the enthusiastic members of the Alberta Sailing Association.

This weekend members (this includes several sailing clubs from around the province) will gather, boats and all, at the Kinsmen Aquatic Centre ("Commonwealth Pool") where they have organized a demonstration geared to familiarize the public with the basics of sailing.

The pool is large enough to accommodate up to eight crafts ranging from tiny children's boats up to large monohulls and catamarans. If present plans go right, giant fans will be installed in the building to provide the necessary wind power.

Representatives from the various clubs will be demonstrating safety and rescue procedures in addition to general sailing skills. There will also be talks and films on different aspects of the sport including racing.

A number of St. Albert sailors will be taking part but there will not be any commercial exhibitors pushing their wares. (That isn't to say sailors won't be recommending their particular crafts as being the best).

Information on building your own craft (including kits) will also be available at the open house (there is a slight admission charge) style affair. The Association has designed the format with the newcomer in mind. A trip to the show should explain what is most suitable for a particular individual - be it recreational, pleasure, racing etc.

The show runs from 2 - 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

CAN SUMMER BE FAR OFF?

Anyone who's ever sailed knows the overwhelming feeling; it's addictive. You can catch a taste Sunday at the Commonwealth Pool.

Canadians coming off rest period

The Nu-West Canadians had a week of well earned rest after their return from Quebec. The rest period was a good idea as about half of the team members came down with some sort of flu or colds and were out of commission for days.

Saturday, February 24, the boys had their first practice after the trip and on Sunday, the team travelled to Edmonton to play an exhibition game with the St. Matthew's KC's of Belvedere in the Oliver Arena and came up with a 5-2 decision in favour of St. Albert. The game was an enjoyable match, good clean hockey from both teams and lots of good passing and team play combined with some fine individual performances. Emanuel Viveiros played well on defence with good performances by other blue-liners such as Ole Graversen, Bryan Oleson, Ron Couture and Bobby Havens.

On the offensive side Todd Cannelley came up with a good performance despite

defenseman and 5th in team scoring the fact he missed most of last week's school as he scored two goals and assisted on two others. Scott Rusnak also had a fine afternoon as he scored two goals and had one assist. Kent Lefebvre was at the right spot at the right time when he chipped in a rebound after a Jimmy Hammett shot on goal. Todd Ewen played his usual fine style of hockey and was very productive with three assists. Scott Neil and Brent Sedgewick shared the goaltending duties and both played well.

The Dean Bosch, David Findlay and Casey Wheatley line played their usual hard working and progressive type of hockey and it was a wonder that no points were scored by this line as many opportunities were created. Steven Gosse on the Lefebvre and Hammett line was also very instrumental in the win with some good fore and back checking.

SCOTT RUSNAK
4th in team scoring

It was good to see that the team played some good defensive hockey with the wingers coming back and covering in the corners. In the past some problem in that area has been in evidence.

The team is now preparing for the provincial playdowns starting Saturday, March 3, when they travel to Hinton, Alberta for their first game.

The league playoff also has to be completed but due to the provincial playoffs and problems getting ice time the schedule has not been finalized to date.

ON THE SIDE

On behalf of players and parents this writer would like to take this opportunity to thank Coaches Ed Rusnak and Darrell Cannelley and Manager Mel Bosch for carrying the load preparing the boys and making the trip to Quebec City the success it was. Also thanks goes out from the team to the many parents who worked hard on projects in connection with the trip.

The next six weeks will be a busy time for the team and good luck to all.

Pontiacs end schedule on winning note

The Hwy 14 Juvenile league schedule has drawn to a close, and the St. Albert Ron Hodgson-Pontiacs compiled an impressive 22-7-3 record, but had to take a back seat to the fast skating Sherwood Park Raiders.

In a heavy weekend agenda, the Pontiacs outscored the Raiders 11-8 at the Perron arena on Thursday night, travelled to Leduc the next night in Zone playdowns and came away on the short end of a 5-4 score. The action switched to Akinsdale Arena on Sunday evening with the Enoch Icemen handing the Pontiac a 7-6 setback.

The Pontiacs "hit the road" again on Monday with a season series breaker in Sherwood Park and came up with their best performance in recent weeks, drubbing the Raiders by an 8-5 count.

PONTIACS DUMP THE PARK

If you are a fan who likes the wide open high scoring brand of hockey, you got your monies worth in this one. The St. Albert victory drew the two teams even on the season's play at 3-3-1.

Jeff Harmon led the Pontiacs with a hat trick and also picked up three assists. Harmon's three markers were all unassisted efforts; two while playing short-handed. St. Albert pulled ahead 8-5 after 40 minutes of play after the first stanza ended in a tie at three. Brad Hancock and Colin Tooth each fired a pair with singles going to John Provencal, Colin Parayko, Ken Young and Bob Fellows.

Sherwood Park's J. Mantle led the visitors with four goals in a five-point night.

ENOCH FINISHES STRONG

The visiting Icemen had only managed a tie with the Pontiacs in seven previous league tussles, but saved their best effort for the "curtain closure."

By the midway point, the Icemen had built up a commanding 5-0 lead and enjoyed a 7-2 margin early in the third. However, the Pontiacs narrowed the gap to one with four late goals, and nearly tied things up with netminder Scott Gannon pulled in favor of a sixth attacker.

Defenceman Murray Riddell fired a pair for the locals, with singles coming from Cliff Greening, Hancock, Provencal and Young.

WHO FINISHED FIRST?

The Pontiacs proved four games in five nights isn't always a tough situation as they handed the league winning Raiders another blow with an outstanding team effort.

Murray Riddell was the big gun in the point parade with a four point night including his seventh goal. Kent Middleton, Colin Tooth, Todd Winquist and Keith Heyburn all blinked the red light once and assisted on two others. Cliff Greening and Ken Young had a two point night including goals, while Calvin MacAulay rounded out the scoring.

St. Albert held period leads of 2-1 and 5-3 outscoring the hometown crew again in the final stanza.

With leading scorer Harmon and captain Crawford absent on a skiing trip, you could have assumed the balance of the Ron Hodgson crew easily could have also gone downhill. However, such was not the case as coaches Harmon and Sage had nothing but praise for the hard-working short-staffed line-up.

STINGERS TAKE SERIES LEAD

The Pontiacs two game total goal zone playdown against Leduc may not mean much to the winners other than pride, but you would have to say both clubs have plenty of that from the way they put out. With St. Albert hosting the provincial playdowns on March 23-25, Leduc is an automatic entry being the only other Juvenile A entry in Zone 3.

Actually the Pontiacs were a bit fortunate to come away only one goal down as they picked up a couple of "soft goals" in the nights play. The locals trailed 2-1 after the opening 20 minutes, and skated off at the end of the middle frame tied at three.

Ken Young fired a pair for the Pontiacs with singles going to Calvin MacAulay and big Bob Crawford.

Final game in the series is scheduled for next week and should be a "cliff hanger" as the Stinglers are now a team capable of knocking anybody off.

PONTIAC PASSES: March 23-24-25 is the big weekend for Juvenile A hockey in Alberta, and St. Albert will be the scene of action. Participating teams will be Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Camrose, Sherwood Park, Leduc, the Pontiacs and the winner of the Red Deer-Wetaskiwin series. With St. Albert hosting the Summer Games this year, the visiting clubs will no doubt be putting our hospitality "to a test" in a small way ... the Hwy 14 league playoffs will be the next action of major importance with semi finals beginning soon. League winning Sherwood Park will have their hands full with Leduc, while the second place Pontiacs must be a little concerned with their series against Enoch after Sunday's loss ... Defenseman Dwayne Wade re-injured his shoulder recently and things don't look very promising for the balance of his hockey season. On the brighter side of the injury list, Todd Winquist returned to action in S.P. after a recent cartilage operation, and surprised everybody with a top notch performance ... Murray Riddell is rounding into shape at the right time collecting seven points in the final two games in addition to playing the "take charge" role on the Pontiacs blueline in the Park ... Brad Hancock was up from Calgary for his first three weekend games and figured largely in Thursday's win ... The St. Albert netminding duo of Brent Galbraith and Scott Gannon combined to give the Pontiacs the best goals against average in the Hwy 14 league ... Pontiacs Point Parade to follow next week, but looks like Colin Tooth pulled a "sneaky" with Harmon out of town and nosed Jeff out by a point.

CKST Angels win Provincial series

The CKST Angels midget B hockey club defeated the Grande Cache Blazers in the second game of the two game total goal series in Provincial playoff action Sunday at the Akinsdale Arena. The Angels won the contest 12-5, after losing a league encounter to Spruce Grove.

On Friday night, Spruce Grove opened up a 2-0 first period lead, and stretched it to 3-0 before the Angels could get on the scoreboard. Dean MacDougall flashed the light with 5:51 left in the second, with assists going to Jamie Sander. Spruce Grove retaliated with a goal less than a minute later. With just over three minutes left in the period, Doug McCarthy scored his first of three goals for the night, on a two man break that was set up perfectly by Rick Oleson. The Grove went into the dressing room with a 4-2 lead.

St. Albert came out in the third fired up, and tied up the game with two more McCarthy goals. The first goal was assisted by Oleson and Jason Swist while Oleson and Dennis O'Neill figured in McCarthy's second of the frame.

The stage was set for the cliff-hanger, and it looked like the contest would end up in a tie when Spruce Grove tallied with only 18 seconds left in the game. Spruce Grove went away with a 5-4 victory, despite being out-shot 45-26.

In the Sunday afternoon game against Grande Cache in the second game of the two-game total goal series, the Angels had no problem gaining the Provincial playoff win.

The first game, played last week in Grande Cache, saw the Angels triple Grande Cache 9-3.

Leading the CKST club were O'Neill and Oleson, with two goals and two assists each, while McCarthy had one marker and three helpers. Sander was not far behind with a goal and two assists. Other goals came from Mike Carwell, Mike Murphy with two, Trent Parayko, Joe Ainsley and Martin Teuber. Swist, Murray Pennington, and Don Trembath also figured in the points by getting assists.

Chris Donnelly was in the nets in the first two periods for the Angels, with Marlowe Klem taking over the duties in the third period. Grande Cache Blazer goalie Bob Napier played well despite being barraged by pucks from the Angel marksmen.

Monday night the Angels hosted Westlock at the Perron arena, coming out on the short end of a 7-4 count.

MacDougall opened the scoring in the first period, assisted by Sander and Murphy, but Westlock came back to tie it up going into the dressing room.

Only one goal was scored in the middle frame, that by Westlock.

In the final stanza, O'Neill tied the game at 2-2, with an assist going to McCarthy. Westlock came storming back with three goals to take a 5-2 lead.

Jason Swist fired in two goals in the last half of the third, the first assisted by Greg Collins, the second by Sander and MacDougall. Westlock came right back again with two goals in the last four minutes of play, and they went on to win 7-4.

The Angels return to action on Thursday night at the Perron arena, playing Enoch in the second round of Provincial playoff action. Game time is 7 p.m.

Carma's edged off provincials trail

In two of the best played, most exciting games they've been in this year, Carma's met and lost to a strong bantam club from Edson, in their two-game total goals provincial zone playoff. Last Friday's opener was dropped 5-4, while the second game, before 150 fans in Edson, ended at 6-5 for the home team.

Friday night, at Akinsdale Arena, Carma's began well when Erin Oor broke out on a short handed play and cleanly beat the Edson goalie early in the first period. However, Edson came back to score three straight in the same period, as they showed some real hustle around the St. Albert net.

During the second period, Carma's began a comeback surge, started by Tony Baller's shot from the point, assisted by Mike Wells and Mike Tessier. Tony Rouault then converted John Holden's pass to tie the game. Both teams then scored again during the period, with Kevin Laliberte notching St. Albert's, assisted by Don Neil and Zach Wheatley.

The third period was hotly contested, with both Chris Lane and his counterpart in the Edson nets keeping the score from mounting. However, it was Edson who collected the winner, with a screened point shot.

Sunday's game in Edson was a true cliff hanger, with no team being ahead by more than one goal. Edson scored first, in less than two minutes, and threatened several more times early in the period. St. Albert's Mike Willemis, however, served early notice that things wouldn't be easy, as he turned aside some very dangerous shots. Finally, Tony Baller again started Carma's on the road back with another point shot, having been fed by Laliberte and Neil. Three minutes later, Laliberte scored on a similar play, with Neil assisting. St. Albert was now ahead in the game, and the total goals were even. Exciting play continued until, with a minute and a half left, and Carma's shorthanded, Edson regained the lead.

The second period was just as action packed, though each team scored but once each. Carma's was collected by Oor, who converted a rebound from shots by Rouault and John Lenz.

After less than two minutes of the third frame, St. Albert again tied the series on a play started by Oor, who passed to Lenz, who set up John Holden's point shot. Rouault managed to tip in Holden's drive, and the fans edged closer off their seats.

With nine minutes remaining, Edson swarmed all around the St. Albert net and poured several shots at Willemis, who continued to be outstanding, but was finally beaten when a loose puck in front was poked into the goal. The tension in the arena at this point had dozens of nail chewing St. Albert fans pacing behind the stands. Three minutes later, they were joined by dozens of Edson fans, when Brian Chai emptied Carma's bench by converting Laliberte's rebound.

When the end came, it was in the form of two consecutive screened point shots by Edson defensemen. The final game score of 6-5 truly reflected the balance of play and Carma's had the satisfaction of knowing that they played well and lost to a good team. Game officials had an easy time of it, issuing only three penalties to each team.

Carma's St. Albert now must content themselves with seeking their league title, in playoffs which will begin soon.

NOT ANOTHER ONE!

Grande Cache Blazer netminder Bob Napier had a lot to handle Sunday at the Akinsdale Arena, as the CKST Angels midget team bombarded him with a myriad of shots. The Angels beat the Blazers 12-5 in the second game of the two-game total goal series. In the first game last week, CKST tripled Grande Cache 9-3.

RMC has rough week

RMC Sports Centre Saints of the BB pee-wee completed one of the toughest weeks of their schedule on Sunday. They started the week by travelling to Athabasca to play the local pee-wee team and came away with a win. The Saints then started the playoffs last Thursday in Morinville and lost the first game of the Sturgeon Pembina BB League semi-finals to the Vipers. On Saturday evening at the Perron Street Arena in St. Albert they suffered their second loss to Morinville and were eliminated from the league playoffs in two straight games. This was a shock as they had split the four league games played with Morinville during the year.

On Sunday the Saints travelled to Edmonton and played an exhibition game against the Glenwood Pee-wee "A" team and managed a tie.

SAINTS BOUNCE ATHABASCA

On Sunday, February 18 the Saints travelled to Athabasca for a Sunday afternoon game and trounced the local team 10-2. The Saints jumped off to a quick 3-0 lead and held on to it until the end of the first period. Goals for the Saints were picked up by Mike Holzer, Tim Korz and Eric Olson.

In the second period the Saints increased their lead to 5-2 on goals by Mike Holzer and Brent Webber. The Saints exploded for five unanswered goals in the third period as Tim Korz fired in two goals to complete his hat trick and Mike Holzer added two more to end the game with four goals. Don Bremault added a single to complete the scoring and a 10-2 win for the Saints. Todd Shaw and Todd Cunningham split the goaltending to block 37 shots.

MORINVILLE SINKS THE SAINTS

On Thursday in Morinville the Saints began the Sturgeon Pembina League semi-final playoffs and were beaten 7-2 by the Vipers. Morinville jumped off to a quick 3-0 lead in the first period and never looked back. The Vipers goalscorers in the first period was Murray Sielski, Sheldon Bland and Neil Bokenfohr.

In the second period Dave Laplante put the Saints on the scoreboard with a goal setup by Billy Mitchell and Stan Black. Morinville came right back and blasted in three goals before the end of the period. Murray Sielski scored his second goal for Morinville and Tim Quinn added a single. Marty Como finished off the scoring for Morinville by scoring before the end of the second period.

BILLY MITCHELL
one goal and two assists in semi-finals

Billy Mitchell scored the RMC Saints final goal on a set-up from Tim Korz and Trent Rees. Neil Bokenfohr fired the final Morinville goal to wrap up a 7-2 win and the first game of the semi-finals.

The goaltenders on both teams had busy nights as Jack Christie of Morinville faced 30 drives and Todd Cunningham of the Saints saw 29 shots come his way.

MORINVILLE WRAPS UP SEMI-FINALS

In the return match Saturday evening in St. Albert, the Vipers skated to an easy 8-1 victory and moved on to the league finals.

The Saints started off as though they were going to make Morinville work for the win but fell behind 4-0 by the end of the first period and it was downhill for the Saints from then on. Morinville goal scorers in the first period were Rick Mulligan with two, David Schriver and Mark Carlton with singles.

In the second period Morinville stayed on the attack and fired in three more goals to take a commanding 7-0 lead after two periods. Goalscorers for Morinville were Mark Carleton with his second of the game and Sheldon Bland along with Murray Sielski added singles.

In the third period the two teams split goals as Mark Carleton completed his last trick for Morinville and Jim Alpaugh scored for St. Albert. Jim Alpaugh's goal was his first of the season and the whole team came off the bench to congratulate him. It was a matter of too little too late as the Saints went down to an 8-1 defeat and were eliminated from the semi-finals.

RMC TIES GLENWOOD

Sunday morning the Saints travelled to Edmonton and took on the Glenwood Pee-wee "A" team and came away with a 5-5 tie. This game will serve as a warmup for the upcoming provincial playoffs the Saints will be competing in.

At the Glenwood Rink the Saints opened the scoring on a goal by Trent Rees as he tapped in a rebound. Tim Korz and Eric Olson drew assists. Glenwood came back with a goal and then Mike Holzer drove in a shot from about 15 feet to give the Saints a 2-1 lead. Glenwood came back to tie the score at two before the period ended.

In the second period Glenwood took a 4-3 lead by the end of the period with the only RMC goal being scored by Billy Mitchell on a shot from the point.

In the third period the Saints fell behind 5-3 before roaring back for a 5-5 tie. The fourth Saints' goal came off the stick of Trent Rees on a pass from Eric Olson.

WILF KEISER
10 goals in league play

The Saints salvaged the tie on a goal by Eric Olson near the end of the third period. Trent Rees and Tim Korz drew the assists on the tying marker. Todd Shaw and Todd Cunningham combined to block 23 shots.

The Saints now rest until Thursday when they open a two-game total goal series with Stony Plain in the Provincials. The first game is set for Stony Plain Thursday with the rematch in St. Albert on Sunday. Let us hope the boys travel a lot further in the Provincials than they did in league playoffs.

Games sports coming together

A little headache here, a little headache there, but nothing a little hard work can't cure.

The people organizing the sports events for the Alberta Summer Games, to be held in St. Albert August 2-6, have been busy solving problems concerning their individual sports portfolio's, and they're doing such a good job, they believe that they're about two months ahead of their Red Deer counterparts from the last Summer Games.

Jack Patterson, sports chairman on the St. Albert Games Board and head of the 23 people on the sports committee, was appointed to the Board back in July. Jack estimates that his Games responsibilities take up an average of two to four hours a day.

He also adds that the people looking after the individual sports are "just fantastic." Jack says that each person believes that "their sport" is the best, thus a good effort is given in getting everything off the ground. Patterson noted that the people were "really eager" when they were approached, and they are all go-getters, making his job all the more easier.

There is a lot of planning involved in the staging of the sporting events. Schedules have to be made up, and they must interlock with the transportation that will be available, plus the different locations that some of the sports will be held at.

Equipment has to be rounded up, from office supplies to water coolers to measuring tapes. Some of this has been acquired. The Alberta Games Council has bought podium stands, and these will be circulated for the Games to come. The St. Albert Games people have bought some items, like office supplies, garbage cans, water coolers, result stands, benches, measuring tapes etc.

Some equipment will be borrowed where possible, but much more has to be purchased.

Some of the initial plans have been altered, like the shooting events. The events will be spread out between the Namao Gun Club (Skeet), Stratheona Range (Small Bore and pistol), Spruce Grove Gun Club (full bore and black powder) and the Edmonton Gun Club (trap). These events have been slightly moved around from the original plans.

The soccer events have been moved from the Akinsdale fields to the Simpson fields. The Simpson fields will be upgraded for the soccer games.

Some baseball games are scheduled for the Woodland's diamond, a diamond that has not been built yet. If, by some chance, it is not finished by Games time, some baseball games will be played in Morinville on the first day of that sports day.

The horseshoe events will be played in St. Albert at new pits (to be built), but if all the zones are heavily represented, some matches will have to be played at the Grand Trunk pits in Edmonton.

The tennis event will face the possibility of having its format changed from a round robin tourney to a modified knockout event. This will be dependent on how many courts are available and exactly how many tennis players will be coming.

So as you can see, there is a lot of work to be done.

Jack Patterson said that the events will be scheduled in the daytime as much as possible, so the athletes can participate in the cultural aspect of the Games that Cultural Chairman Ken Graham is planning.

Then there is the possibility of rain. Jack says that many of the sports can go on if there is rain, but downpours could ruin baseball diamonds and the tennis events. He added that they are working on having some indoor courts available in case that a steady rain happens.

Rounding up volunteers to help out is also part of the plan. Jack estimates that there will be between 500 and 700 volunteers working in various aspects of the sporting events.

Among the sports chairpeople is a results chairman. Don Lavoie will be in charge of having the results quickly posted and getting them to the media at the Games headquarters.

Joe Laplante has the dubious distinction of assistant director to Jack. He and Jack have a big job in getting all the people together with their plans.

The individual sports chairpersons deserve a mention: Sorrel Bowman is in charge of archery; Bert La Buick-baseball; Bob Edmunds-diving; Jack Swann-equestrian; Willie Sietinga-ladies field hockey; Mark Burroughs-men's field hockey; Martin Kachuk-men's golf; Mel Fischer-horseshoes; Ferrv Baller-lacrosse; Ian Skogstad - shooting; Frank Vettergreen-slowpitch; Peter Hancock-soccer; Barrie Burton-swimming; Cecil Rhodes - synchronized swimming; Judy Wood-tennis; John Coonie-track and field; Bob O'Donnell-team pentathlon; and Betty McCrum-ladies golf. A canoeing chairman will be announced at a later date.

Also looking after certain areas are Gerry Hood, who will be in charge of equipment, and Bob Sauer, who is in charge of facilities.

Jack and his crew are looking to make these Games the best ever, and they believe they can do it. The quality of these people is amazing, and that's why the 1979 Alberta Summer Games will probably be a spectacle that the people of St. Albert and the visitors to our city will remember for a long time.

It looks like the three thousand athletes that will be coming here will be in extremely good hands.

Oilers on top in W.H.A.

Edmonton Oilers, on the strength of a 10-game winning streak, are in first place in the six-team World Hockey Association, three points up on the New England Whalers.

Oilers also have played three games fewer than the Whalers and have six in hand on the Winnipeg Jets who hold down third spot. Quebec Nordiques are in fourth place one point behind the Jets.

Stan Weir led the Oilers on the scoresheet Sunday afternoon with a pair of goals in Edmonton's 5-4 win over the Birmingham Bulls.

Rookie sensation Wayne Gretzky with his 31st of the season, Blair MacDonald, and Dennis Sobchuk added the others.

Veteran goaltender Dave Dryden had an excellent game between the pipes stopping 33 Birmingham shots, many of which were labelled.

Oilers will finish off a five game home stand Friday night when the Cincinnati Stingers make their final visit in the regular season schedule and then will take to the road for a six-game tour that will see them play a pair of games each in Cincinnati, Birmingham and Quebec.

Their next home game will be against the Nordiques, March 16.

Don't forget to get your tickets to the Finnish National game here March 20.

Vipers win playoff series

The Morinville Vipers peewee BB team trounced the St. Albert RMC Sports Saints twice in a best of three league playoff series in the Sturgeon-Pembina Peewee BB circuit.

The Vipers won the first game of the semi-finals beating the Saints 7-2 last Wednesday in Morinville.

The second game was played in St. Albert on Saturday, and that contest saw the Morinville club clobber the St. Albert team 8-1.

Jack Christie, in goal for the Vipers, played an outstanding series in keeping the goals down.

Pointgetters from the two games for Morinville were: Rick Mulligan with five points; David Schriver and Murray Siesleski with four each; Mark Carlton, Sheldon Bland and Tim Quinn with three each; Neil Bokenfohr with two and Curtis Purdue, Andy Hittinger, Marty Como and Wayne Dahl with one each.

The Vipers advance to the finals against the winner of the Sherwood Park-Spruce Grove series, which hasn't got underway yet.

Upsets in Sturgeon Senior Hockey playoffs

The opening round action in the best of five playoffs in the Sturgeon Valley Senior Hockey League has produced some major upsets, with the most prominent taking place in the Gibbons/Redwater series. The defending champion Marlowes are down two games to none to the surprising Outlaws.

Redwater won the opening game in Gibbons Friday night with a 5-4 overtime victory and then followed up with a 6-3 win at home Sunday afternoon.

By the time you read this the Outlaws could have advanced into the three team round-robin playoffs as the two teams played Tuesday night, although no results were available at press time. Should Gibbons have won on Tuesday, then the next game would be played in Redwater Friday night with the fifth game, if necessary, on Sunday.

Calahoo Scorpions hammered Legal Canadiens 10-2

in their series opener last Tuesday, but since then, the Canadiens have come back with a 10-6 win Friday in Legal and a 9-7 win Sunday in Calahoo. No score of Tuesday night's game was available. If Legal wins the series is over, but should Calahoo win, then the fifth and deciding game will be played in Calahoo Friday, March 2.

The other series between Morinville and Namao saw Morinville win the opener Tuesday by a 6-4 score, but Namao won the last two by scores of 7-4 Friday and 2-1 Sunday. Last night's game in Morinville was not available at press time.

Final league scoring statistics confirm that veteran Leo Provencal has won the scoring championship on 30 goals and 50 assists for 80 points.

Tom Sokolowski of Redwater was the runner-up with 77 points on a league leading 44 goals and 33 assists.

Provencal had the most assists with 50 and also won the most gentlemanly player award with only two minutes in the penalty column.

Gibbons Marlowes scored the most team goals with 221 and also allowed the least amount with 108.

How being the "right" size can prove a regular problem

By Robert C. Radcliffe National Geographic

Short and tall people may see eyeball-to-knee on a lot of differences, but their common enemies are the regulars, the men and women of average height.

But nobody ever writes a small-minded pop song about regulars. Nobody ever wearies them with such yuks as, "How's the weather up there?"

Yet they are why piano benches are too low or beds too short for everybody else. These regulars are why all the good-looking suits and dresses are in their sizes alone, leaving the most fashionable in horse blankets to be made up into 44 extra longs and the most garish of bedspread prints for size 6's.

TOUCHY OVER "HEIGHTISM"

Statisticians at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have sized up this majority of regulars. The average height of American men is now 5 feet 9 inches and of women 5 feet 3.6 inches.

Guilty or not, average-height Americans, just by being the most available measuring sticks around, may be blamed for "heightism," the touchiness the rest of us may feel sometimes about being too short or too tall.

These regulars, grouped around the 14.2 percent who are 5 feet 9 inches for men, are topped by 15 percent who are over 6 feet and .9 percent who are over 6 feet 4 inches. Only .1 percent of men are shorter than 5 feet.

Among women, with 15.2 percent about the average height of 5 feet 3 inches, another 13.5 percent are 5 feet or shorter and only .3 percent of women are as tall as 5 feet 11 inches.

Sometimes small can be big. At 5 feet 8 inches,

Franklin Jacobs looked badly outclassed trying to outleap the stringbean high jumpers of Madison Square Garden's Millrose Games last January.

But he beat them all, briefly setting a world indoor record by clearing 7 feet 7 1/4 inches -- exactly 23 1/4 inches over his head.

HELPING ARM

On the other hand, Clifford Ray, the 6 foot 9 inch centre for the Golden State Warriors, had just what the veterinarian ordered in February at a San Francisco peninsula marine world. When one of the dolphins swallowed a bolt, it proved out of reach of the vet's instruments.

So he hurriedly called Ray, who slipped his long arm down the dolphin's gullet to reach and retrieve the threatening bolt.

Small Americans may complain the world unfairly types them as overbearing, cocky Napoleons to the extent they have to act aggressively just to seem normal.

But lanky humorist Russell Baker writes, "Short people are permitted to enjoy malice to the hilt," while tall citizens are expected to be "Lincolnesque" and above it all no matter what.

Short folks point out that surveys have shown that tall people frequently get better jobs, higher pay, and faster promotions over better-qualified small people.

And tall men nod knowingly over a London clinical study that showed that such greater-than-lifesize men are the ones most likely to lose their hair -- doubtless due to rubbing up against the headboards of all those too-short, regular-size beds.

Victims of sexual harassment can complain

A recent decision of the Alberta Human Rights Commission means that victims of sexual harassment on the job will now be able to register complaints under the province's anti-discrimination legislation.

After a year of research and debate, the Commission has resolved to treat sexual harassment as a form of sex discrimination under Section 6 of the Individual's Rights Protection Act. With the addition of some safeguards to protect the privacy of the individuals involved, the procedures involved in investigating these complaints will be substantially the same as those used in other sex discrimination cases.

More than a year ago, the Commission decided that because of the difficulty of proving discrimination in situations of sexual harassment, such complaints were beyond the jurisdiction of the Act. Subsequent research, however, revealed that in a number of other provincial jurisdictions, as well as in the courts of the United States, no special techniques or additional proof are needed beyond the standard set by cases alleging discrimination on any other prohibited grounds. This research has led the Commission to reconsider the issue, with the result that cases held in abeyance over the last few months will now be proceeded with, and new complaints alleging sexual harassment will be dealt with in the usual manner.

As with other complaints, it must be shown that the discriminatory action, in this case sexual harassment (or the refusal of the complainant to submit to sexual coercion), is a probable cause of the lost promotion, demotion, dismissal, or deterioration in working conditions. Because of the difficulty of establishing proof in a situation which often involves just two persons, complainants are urged to first pursue grievance procedures within their own workplace. If this does not satisfactorily resolve the situation, they are then encouraged to complain to the Alberta Human Rights Commission.

Sexual harassment can vary greatly in its character and in its repercussions, and because of its usually private nature, victims of this sort of aggressive discrimination may often be reluctant to come forward with complaints. It is hoped that this decision by the Alberta Human Rights Commission will overcome that reluctance, and that the struggle against sexual harassment in the workplace can become more effective.

Sole Meuniere - is restaurant classic

A restaurant menu classic -- you'll find this elegant entree a snap to prepare in your own kitchen -- or at tableside. High protein, low fat sole (or flounder) from the icy waters of the North Atlantic should be sauteed just long enough to coagulate the protein. When the fish becomes opaque and flakes easily with a fork, it's ready to serve. Remember overcooking causes toughness, dryness and loss of flavour.

- 2 lbs. frozen North Atlantic sole or flounder fillets
- Salt
- Pepper
- Flour
- 2 tbs. butter (about)
- 2 tbs. oil (about)
- 1/4 cup sliced almonds
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

Allow fish to thaw just enough to separate fillets. Pat fillets with paper towel to remove excess moisture. Sprinkle fillets with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. In large skillet, melt butter and add an equal amount of oil. Fat should reach a depth of 1/4 inch. Heat to very hot but not smoking. Fry fish until golden brown on one side, turn and brown the other side. (Total cooking time approximately six to seven minutes). Remove to platter. Add almonds to pan. Saute until toasted. Add parsley and lemon juice. Pour over fish. Serves six.

Travel Alberta Guide available

Now available, Travel Alberta's 1979 Accommodation Guide goes farther than just listing approved accommodation.

There's more detail on special interest and adventure accommodation. Get-away packages -- like country vacations, guest ranching -- winter and summer, fly-in fishing camps, river trips, bicycle tours, wilderness tours, trail riding, and mountain camp experiences.

To help plan your trip, the general information section contains basic facts about Alberta -- its history, geography, climate, and where to get information on the road. For those who love the outdoors, there's an extensive listing of Alberta's campgrounds including national, provincial and municipal parks, forestry areas and private camping.

French and German translations of the 1979 Visitors Accommodation Guide will be available in early March.

Books for singles at the library

By Ann Knight

If you are single again for any reason, the Library has books that may benefit you. Here are some titles found in the 301.42 section:

Three Out of Four Wives - Widowhood in America, by Alfred Lewis and Barrie Barns. "Life After Death - It's Every Widow's Right."

Millions of women are widows and many have widespread problems. Solutions to these are as different as the widows themselves. However, there are certain things that every woman should know and do to help her make the transition. These authors offer more than sympathy, they offer valuable information.

Teach Your Wife How To Be A Widow by U.S. News and World Report. This book is intended to help those men and women who are prepared to face up to the realities of life and death. It is a guide intended for both husbands and wives presented in such a manner that the reader can readily become familiar with such matters as investments, taxes, housing, and employment.

The Divorced Mother - A Guide to Readjustment by Carol Mindey. This book is a sound and practical guide for the mother who is undergoing divorce. To help other women the author shares her experiences and relates with candor and good humor what did and did not work for her. Specific information on the legal and technical aspects of divorce is also provided.

A New Life Plan - A Guide for the Divorced Woman by Louise Montague. This is a guide to help you put together the life you want.

Who Will Raise the Children? - New Options for Fathers (and Mothers), by James A. Levine. This book investigates a largely overlooked but growing phenomenon today - man who deliberately choose to care for children. These "house-husbands" - single adoptive fathers, men who have custody of their children and men who work part-time in order to spend more time with their young children, are all among those profiled here.
